Images Of Autumn

losing your tan, school, bare trees, hats, hunting, leaves, soft pretzels, hot chocolate, sweaters, colds, pumpkins, carmel-coated apples, football, full moon, bats, elections, seeing your breath for the first time since last fall, ending summer romances, anti-freeze, mums, colors of the leaves, red, gold, rust crackling leaves, cool crisp air, runny noses, frost on the grass, hay rides, spiced wafers, apple cider, long walks in the woods, horse-back riding, Thanksgiving, Halloween, long talks while roasting marshmallows over an open fire, good friends—which are a part of every season of the year.

Part 1
COMMUTERS . . .

WHERE WE

A sleepy commuter thinks about the day ahead at WCSC as he leaves his Upper Darby home.

The commuter lounge in the Student Union provides an alternative to studying history in the car or eating a bag lunch on a cold campus bench.

Resident students often think of commuting as only a disadvantage. There are some advantages, however, according to several commuters at WCSC. Commuters can study in the privacy of their own rooms at home, they can enjoy a homecooked meal every night, and they don't have to cart their belongings in and out of the dorm every year. It's usually cheaper to commute, and according to Diane Solivajs, a commuter from Upper Darby, she "can stretch out the money more," by commuting.

Many commuters spend free time in College Union, the library, or in the basement of Recitation Hall. The biggest disadvantage of commuting, according to commuters interviewed, is the PARKING PROBLEM. As Calvin Valenti puts it, "If you are not here by 8:00 or so, forget finding a parking space."

Sometimes underclassmen commuters feel like they are missing out on a lot of college life and college activities. Many interviewed said that they could forsee living on campus in the future. Conversely, upperclassmen tend to like commuting, because they can enjoy their friends, jobs, and activities at home.

Sometimes it's a big pain driving to West Chester State, when it's raining or snowing, and when the car in front of you has taken the last parking space within 3 miles. But then, sometimes, it's a nice feeling to get into your car at the end of classes and drive away from the college, escaping from the pressure of classwork, even if just for a while.

LIVE!

West Chester Borough Police hand out "friendly" reminders to commuters who forget that this street is closed on Wednesday, that street on Thursday . . .

Lawrence Center snack shop . . . another commuter hangout.

One more problem for the commuter . . . the parking lot behind the Student Union closed during October for repairs.

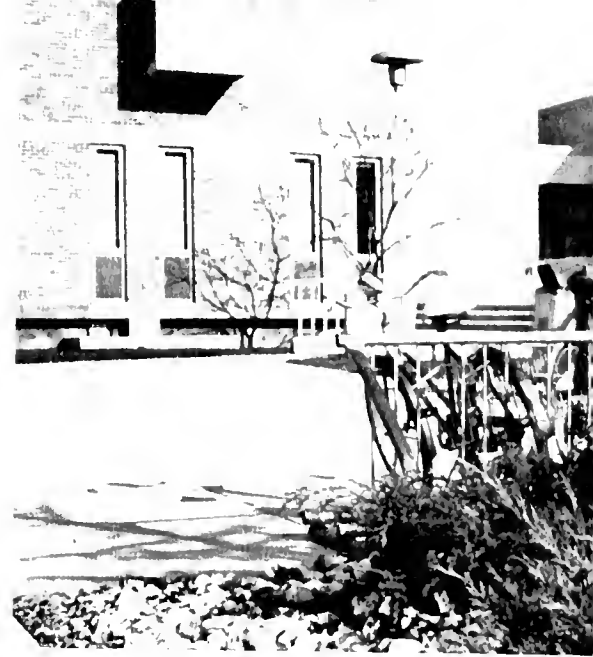

WHERE WE LIVE!

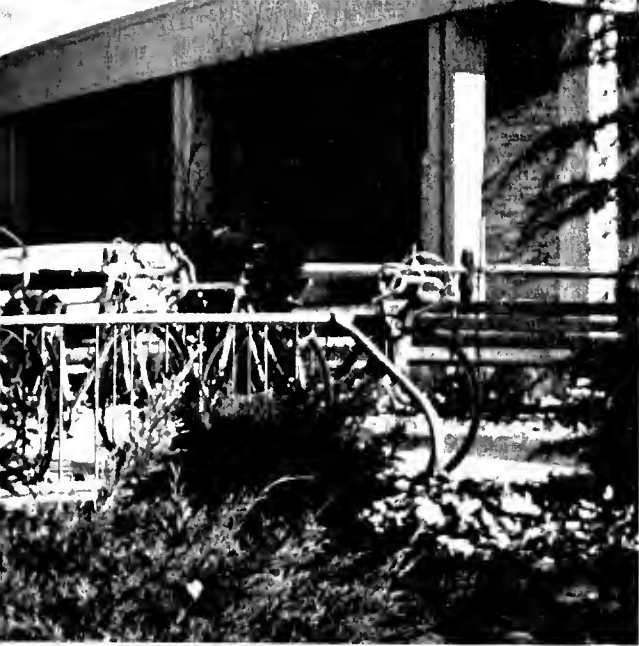

The parking lot at Roslyn Ave. can normally be found like this—unless of course you arrive before 8 AM.

SEPTA buses provide transportation for many WCSC commuters. Buses run from Market and High Streets to 69th Street Terminal via West Chester Pike.

The sun setting beyond the terminal at 69th Street sets a mood for WCSC students as well as many other students and businessmen for reflection of the day's activities.

Commuters come to WCSC by all means of transportation as portrayed by the various bicycle racks around campus.

Repairing Rosedale Ave. not only ties traffic up but eliminates more parking spaces for students.

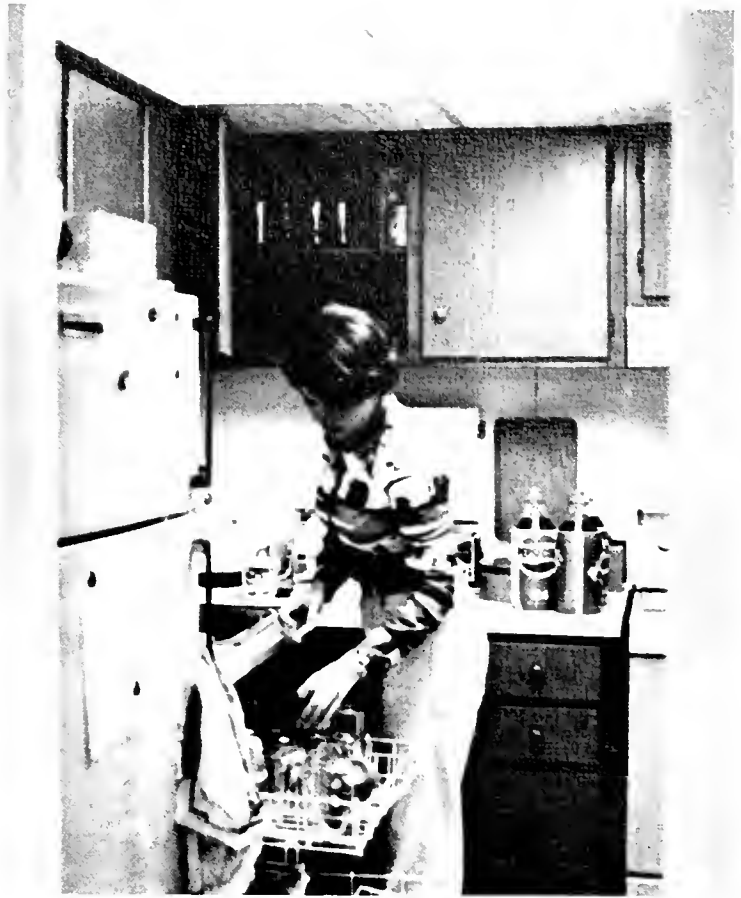

Commuters can be found all through SCUB studying, sleeping, eating, or playing pinball.

WHERE WE

Scattered around the community of West Chester are several thousand college students who chose to dwell in a residence other than a dormitory. It is difficult to pinpoint the exact location of these students, whose living arrangements range anywhere from rooming houses to farm houses, but they tend to cluster in certain well known places. Ramsgate Apartments, South Walnut Street, and Dean Street Apartments are some of the areas made up almost exclusively of a conglomeration of college students.

LIVE!

WHERE WE LIVE!

Those who prefer off-campus living learn very quickly that wherever there exists a condition that creates a demand for living space, rent soars to a level just below what cannot be afforded. And isn't it peculiar that those landlords whose presence around the first of the month is almost smothering are so hard to contact in mid-month when, for instance, your water heater stops heating water?

C'est la vie, you say, but why must we also seem to be at the mercy of a ring of thieves who select the student population as its victims? That bicycle that cost six weeks of chopping wood for Mrs. White on weekends is not on the porch where I left it an hour ago. And the stereo, acquired as the result of three years' effort is found missing from its place on the table upon my return from a concert in Philips Auditorium. What next? The door knobs on our house, or the tires from my car? Take them, but don't bother me, I think, returning from night class under a starless sky.

The drawbacks, though, are counterbalanced by numerous advantages. Away from Mom's cooking and Cuisine Ltd., we surprise our friends and ourselves with our culinary abilities as we become master chefs. All students responsible for their own meals could probably write a book entitled Fifty Ways to Make Ground Meat Delectable, Incredible, and Edible.

Expertise is acquired also in the areas of interior decorating and horticulture. It's amazing how students can make do with what they have when they must put together a comfortable, casual, pleasant-to-be-in abode.

Off-campus students deserve a lot of credit for simply finding a place to live, since they receive little or no help from the Off-Campus Housing Department. It is solely through their own efforts that they manage to keep an apartment, pay their bills, cope with roommates and pets, and be students—all at the same time.

PART 3

DORMS . . .

WHERE WE

Goshen Dorm

LIVE!

Goshen

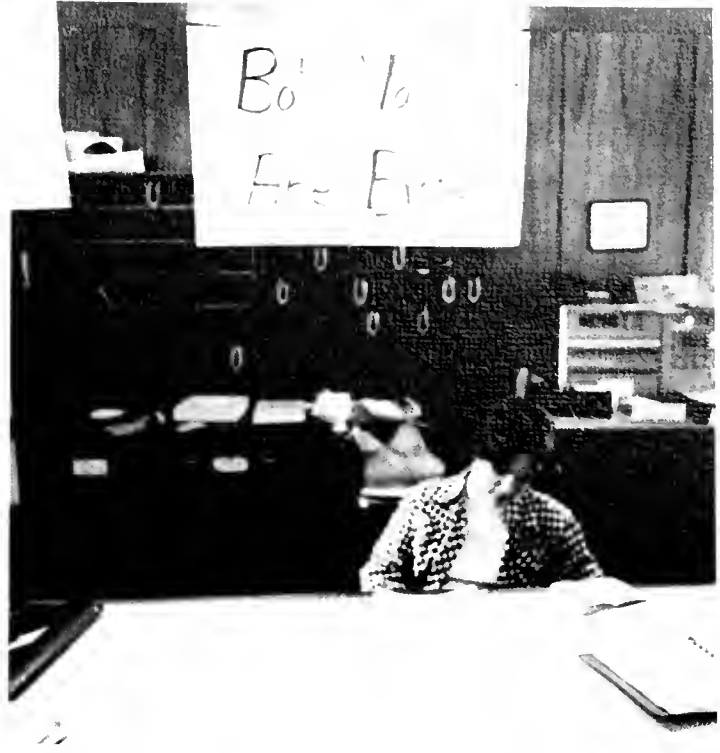

It's known as "slow motion Goshen", but those of us who live there know differently. Goshen isn't just a place to live; it's home. It's late night snacks, twenty girls waiting for a phone call at the same time, broken elevators and vacuums, pizza parties, ice cream parties, and heavy gossip sessions. It's sneaking guys, beer, and other "forbiddens" into rooms and fighting for twenty-four hour visitation rights and winning. But most of all, it's a warm and friendly dorm—a great place to live.

Tyson

Located between Ramsey and Goshen, Tyson dorm is one of the most active dorms on campus. Its residents always engage in a number of private dorm activities as well as campus activities.

For example, this year a campus hayride was sponsored to raise money for canned goods for the poor, a W.C. Fields film festival, a wild Halloween party, and many coffeehouses with speakers and performers such as Mr. Fingers were arranged for general entertainment purposes.

Within the dorm, ping-pong and pool championships were held, as well as a Spring Formal, donuts during finals, a lobby painting contest, and a secret letter chain.

McCarthy

Every campus has its quiet dorm — at West Chester State McCarthy is the winner. Filled with females, McCarthy tends to be less rowdy than Schmidt or Goshen. But still it is home to many who find it warm, friendly, and peaceful — altogether a wonderful place to live. McCarthy has organized such events as a Spring Formal, a dorm picnic, a Haunted House at Halloween, a missing shamrock contest, and various scavenger hunts.

SANDERSON

There's always something happening at Sanderson Hall . . . and most of the time it's good.

Holiday parties, dances, formals, trips to professional sports events, guest speakers, games, and a newspaper are just a few of the activities sponsored by Sanderson's active dorm council.

Like the other residence halls, Sanderson had its share of vandalism, noise, false fire alarms, and general apathy at times, but the basic feeling of the Sanderson community was one of friendliness and good-natured, old-fashioned fun.

Annamae Bitts is the R.A. on sixth floor Sanderson.

A Typical room in Sanderson.

WAYNE

Wayne is the only dorm where both sexes occupy the same hall. Students find the resulting atmosphere friendly and feel that they have been enabled to develop good relationships with both sexes.

Wayne is a very active dorm. This year, for instance, several trips were arranged for its residents. Two sightseeing trips to Washington D.C. were held, along with a trip to New Hope and one to New York. A Halloween dance and a Spring Formal were two events that turned out to be big successes. Wayne has also sponsored many coffeehouses throughout the year.

Schmidt

Red brick walls, eight floors of fun-loving females, “sorry for this late announcement,” partying, studying, and Hattie. You’ll find all of these on the corner of Rosedale and New, in Schmidt Hall.

Take a peak in one of the rooms, and you’re liable to see every man from David Bowie to Robert Redford (no, they don’t live there, they just kind of “hang” around).

Although Schmidt may have the reputation of being “the convent”, those who live there feel differently. It’s not only a nice place to visit—it’s a great place to live.

What are they all whispering about at Schmidt’s annual Christmas party?

DINING HALL

FRIENDS: FOOD: FUN

Dining in the cafeteria entails socializing with other students, and even more important — EATING. Among the 3400 students who eat their meals in the cafeteria daily, there are certainly many feelings about the food service. Some opinions are positive, most are negative, but basically everyone agrees that the quality of the food is not what it could be. Several students were asked their opinion on the dining service. Here are their replies: Nancy Rader — “Ugh! I wouldn’t recommend it!” Paul Girone — “The food lacks flavor! The only thing worse than the dining hall food is the dining hall service.” Tim Grimm — “Are we supposed to eat IT?” Christi Jimenez — “After we pay the money to go here they have the nerve to serve us on plastic picnic dishes!” Josh Rourke — “The spaghetti isn’t bad. It’s not good, but it’s not bad either!”

Is this peanut butter or mustard?!

LIBRARY

In 1966, the first phase of the project for a new library was completed. This was the library that we remember going into as undergraduates in order to get away from the clutter and chaos of the dormitories. More often than not, though, the same confusion that drove us there greeted us when we settled down to our studies. What we didn't realize, however, was that the second phase of the library project was in its planning stage, and that by the time we were seniors, that orderly, and quiet retreat would be a reality.

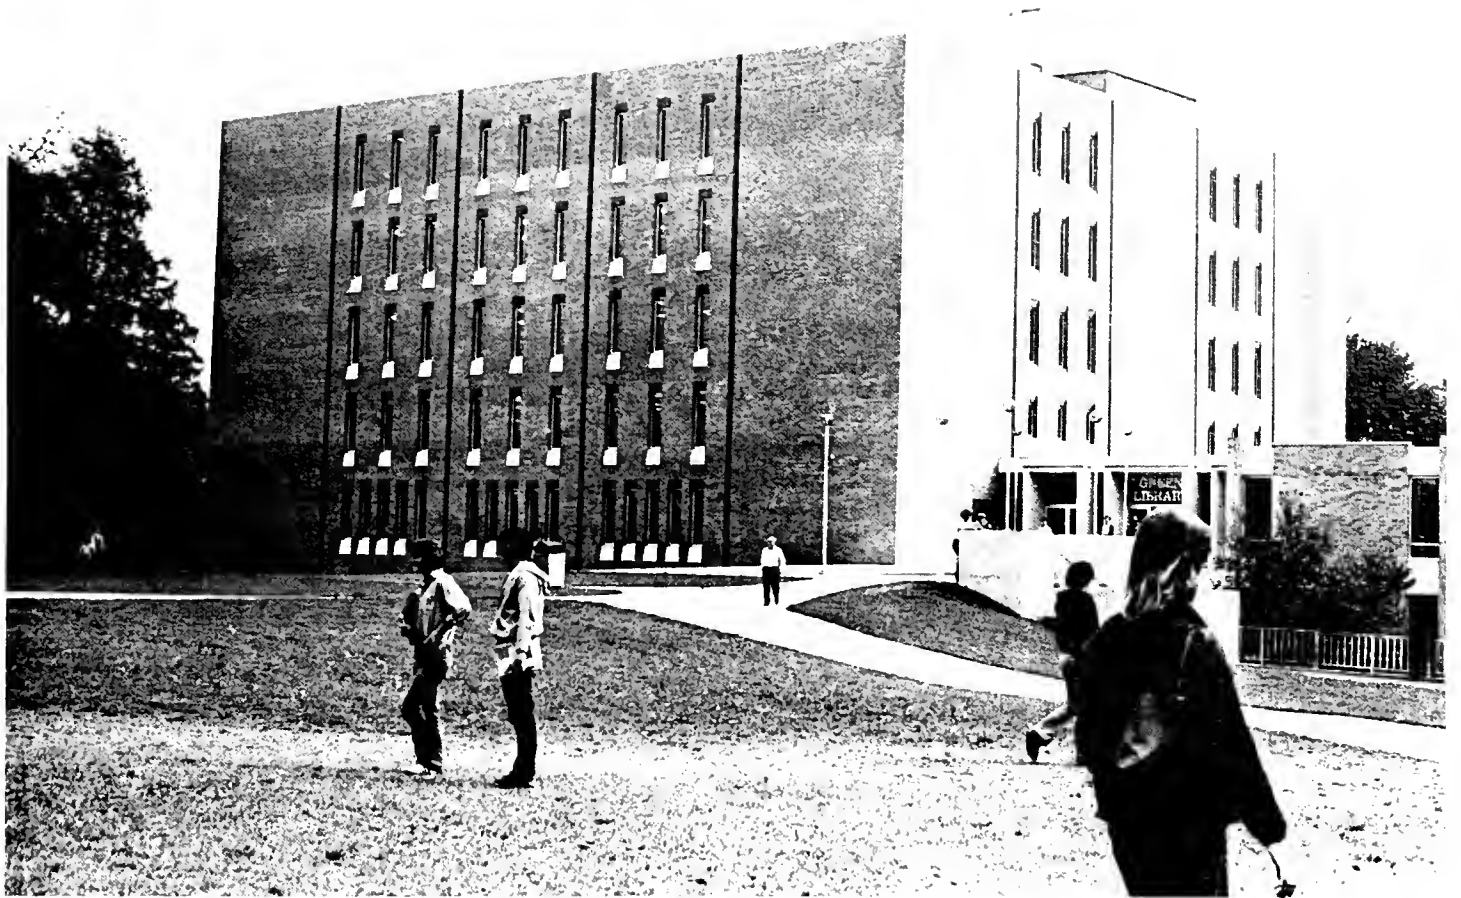

Construction for the project took two years beginning in 1974 and ending in 1976. A sum of $2.89 million was appropriated by the state for the building of one library. Of this, $289,000 was used for the furnishes. When the library was finally in full operation, many of us were amazed to discover that it was run mainly for the comfort of us — the students.

The new library now holds on its six floors what was formerly packed into two. This includes the Instructional Media Center (IMC), the Audio Visual (AV) previewing station, periodicals, newspapers, micromedia equipment, and special functions rooms (lounges and typing rooms). Because of the greatly enlarged spacial area, the library now has room to enlarge and expand its holdings while before this could not even be thought of. Already they've increased the facilities in the IMC, have acquired a Map Room, and boast of a Special Collections Room, located on the sixth floor, in which the treasures of the college are put.

Director of the library Frank Q. Helms, is proud of the new addition to the college. "It's been my main concern for 10 years. It's almost like a father seeing his first daughter arrive," he remarked. On the whole, the library has become what it should be. A place where students can go to study in a relaxing, comfortable area, and find an enjoyable atmosphere in which increasing one's knowledge can be a pleasure.

A necessity at any library ... the copy machines.

PRESIDENT MAYO

Dr. Mayo was recognized as a distinguished member of the academic community many years before coming to West Chester State in 1974. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Southern California in 1963 and, in 1966, was retained by that University as a faculty member and administrator. Just prior to accepting the position of President of West Chester State, he was Dean of The Graduate School at U.S.C. As a scholar in the field of political science, Dr. Mayo is author and co-author of several publications and articles. He has also received recognition in Who's Who In America and in Who's Who In the World.

Since he came to West Chester Dr. Mayo has been working toward some very definite goals. He feels that he has encouraged students, faculty, and administrators to discuss college issues and hopes to create an environment of academic freedom and openness. Another objective is that of raising funds. He feels that the State does not contribute enough money to make West Chester the viable institution that it could be and is turning to private sources for additional funding.

Also, President Mayo is not like other administrators, whose daily routine keeps them from contact with the real business of the college. He enjoys teaching—a rarity among college presidents. He taught several graduate courses in his field while at U.S.C. and will be teaching one here in Spring 1977—entitled American Public Policy.

Very Interesting PROFESSORS

Scattered throughout the student life section are pages devoted to some professors who we feel are very interesting: men and women who have done something special and/or have a special rapport with students.

Dr. Field and Dr. Weiss, both members of the School of Arts and Letters, are collaborating on a book entitled Cases for Composition, suitable for use in all practical writing courses in both college and high school. Both feel that most incoming freshmen have not had adequate preparation in writing skills. Their book, which consists mainly of cases, is intended to provide material that can be used effectively to correct existing deficiencies by the time the freshmen graduate from college.

When not writing their book, both professors are busy in their personal lives, and active on college committees. Dr. Weiss is a home wine-maker, has organized a wine-tasting group of which Dr. Mayo is a member, and lectures on wines locally. Both professors and their wives are very interested in organic foods and organic gardening and spend much of their summer planting and harvesting all of their own vegetables. Both Dr. Field and Dr. Weiss have, in the past, served on several committees in the English Department. Dr. Weiss is currently the chairman of the departmental student advisers and is on the Faculty Manual Committee. Dr. Field, coordinator of the Graduate English Program, is also a member of the Budget Committee (including its executive and graduate affairs sub-committees), the Curriculum and Academic Policies Committee, and is faculty adviser to the Serpentine.

Dr. DeMoss, associate professor of Business Administration, has developed a special rapport with the students of business. Although many find his subjects difficult, Dr. DeMoss quickly puts them at ease with a sudden display of his sometimes caustic wit. This, accompanied by an intuitive awareness of class moods, ranks him among the favorites at West Chester.

A graduate of Kansas State University, Dr. DeMoss taught at two other colleges before coming to West Chester in 1972. While here, he spends much of his time preparing for his economics lectures. His desk is strewn with the most recent issues of various economics oriented materials, some of which are used in the classroom. He is faculty adviser to the Society for the Advancement of Management and is also a student adviser, a position that offers him insight into the problems of students. He is aware, for example, that many work while attending school, and understands the anxieties that this can create since he, too, worked when he was a student.

Asked about the future, Dr. DeMoss said that he thinks that the student body is changing in a positive way, and that he would like to see the introduction of student activities that will generate more interest on campus than many we now have.

In teaching his classes, Dr. George Maxim integrates theory with active learning. He believes that "Students as well as professors have a great deal to contribute to the classroom; the teacher's role is to involve the student in active learning, where the teacher acts as only one of many resources of information." Dr. Maxim is an excellent example of a professor who "practices what he preaches", communicating his attitudes, values, and knowledge smoothly to his students.

Dr. Maxim received his B.S. and M.Ed. in elementary education from Mansfield State College, where he also played basketball. He received his PhD. from Penn State, and joined the Elementary Education Department at West Chester in 1972. Although only 34, Dr. Maxim has written two books, both of which will be available in January: Methods of Teaching Social Studies to Elementary School Children, and Learning Centers for Young Children. He is now hard at work on a third book on early childhood education.

Dr. Maxim was one of four recipients of the Distinguished Teaching Award at West Chester in 1975, he has published several articles in educational journals, given workshops in both social studies education and open education, and is presently a member of the advisory committee for the National Council for the Social Studies. Dr. Maxim's interest in students is, perhaps, amply illustrated by his comment that he considers being chosen for the 1977 SERPENTINE his greatest honor of all.

He remarks, "Students at West Chester are among the friendliest, nicest, and most dedicated to their field of any place I've been."

The Institute of Women, founded by Dr. Madelyn Gutwirth and Dr. Pamela Hemphill, and the School of Education were awarded, this year, a federal grant under the Women's Educational Equity Program. The funds are to be used to design a course that will teach teachers how to become aware of sexism in the classroom and how to cope with it effectively. The project is the only one of its kind in the Philadelphia area, and Drs. Hemphill and Gutwirth feel that it could possibly have national impact since what will be developed here and in similar projects throughout the country will be used as a paradigm for training nationwide. They hope that our own School of Education will ultimately wish to utilize the material developed by this program.

Drs. Hemphill and Gutwirth's interest in women on this campus gained momentum when they realized that the college traditionally has not provided necessary, basic services to women. The administration, while encouraging the improvement of women's condition, rather expects them to provide for themselves. It is not prepared to make special efforts to attract more mature women to the campus. As a result, Dr. Gutwirth and Dr. Hemphill began the Women's Studies program in 1971, started the Women's Center in 1974, and founded the Institute in 1975.

The Women's Studies program is an effort to give intellectual viability to courses and research which examines the history and role of women in culture and society. The Center is intended to provide a place for women to congregate to design common goals or to simply socialize. The Institute's primary purpose is to enable West Chester State to raise funds so that some of the necessary assistance, through these other projects, can be provided.

CHRISTMAS AND

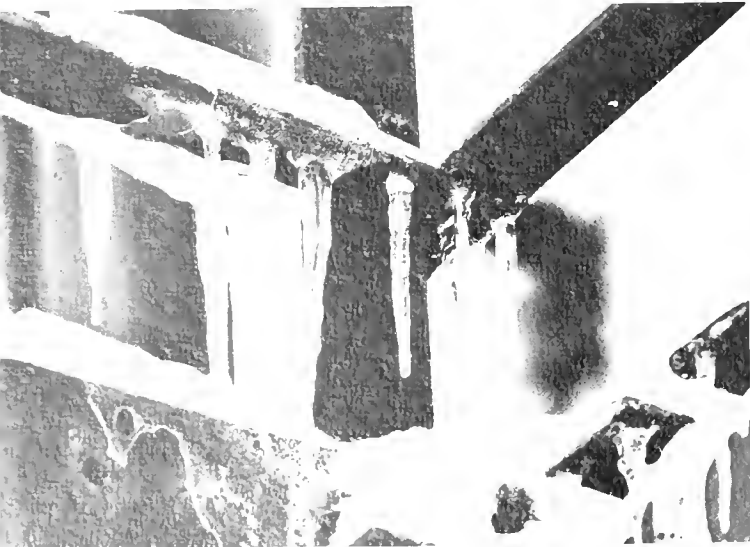

WINTER

Mr. Roy Sweet conducts a carol sing along that involves both the audience and the choirs.

The traditional Christmas dinner is a big event of the season.

Christmas spirit moves into the dorms as students decorate their doors and rooms.

After Thanksgiving, that seemingly endless month remaining in the semester is made a little less painful by the familiar feeling of anticipation for the approaching holiday season. The annual Christmas Concert presented by the School of Music, the traditional turkey dinner in the cafeteria, dorm parties and formal affairs, Pollyannas, care packages of Christmas cookies sent from home, frequent trips to the crowded shopping malls, midnight carolers, tinsel trees, and electric lights are all reminders that Christmas is close at hand.

But the real spirit of Christmas, that warm excitement you experienced when you were younger, as well as genuine feelings of peace and good will, doesn't come until that last paper is turned in, and that last exam is completed.

It wouldn't be Christmas without a beautifully decorated tree on display.

Concert Choir and College Choir perform under the direction of Mr. Roy Sweet.

The severest winter ever in the history of the U.S., the 1976-77 winter on the East coast is certainly one that we will all remember. Sub-zero temperature, much snow, ice, and chilling winds made it awfully difficult to get to lectures and classes. Even long underwear couldn't keep out the chill factors that sometimes dipped to -40 F. Not surprisingly, the bad weather was successful in doing something that many college activities have failed to do in the past. It forced some of us to stay on campus for a few weekends.

Nevertheless, many students made the best of the situation, smuggling cafeteria trays under suspiciously bulky coats, and bravely attempting the icy slopes near Wayne Hall. Others found enjoyment watching fellow students slide and fall on icy walkways. Still others found solace in the hope that classes would be cancelled.

Along with the artic-like weather, we experienced a very serious energy crisis that closed all public schools for a few days and forced officials to declare a state of emergency in Penna. However, cold classrooms, frozen water pipes, stranded vehicles, and indifferent Nature didn't close the doors of West Chester State College. We remained open.

FRANK MILLIMAN

Frank Milliman, Assistant Chairman of the Math Department, finds his job a very rewarding one. He takes great interest in the Math majors at West Chester, often advising students in the selection of courses and filling out recommendations for graduating seniors. A student's progress in Math and the practical application of his studies in the future, are important concerns of Mr. Milliman.

Membership in such organizations as the Faculty Senate, the APSCUF General Assembly, Curriculum Committee, and the Executive Committee of the Math Department obviously keeps Mr. Milliman quite busy. However, his teaching is his primary interest. Other outside interests include gourmet cooking, gardening, collecting antiques, and bicycling. Although planning to remain at West Chester until his retirement, Mr. Milliman has other future ambitions, including such things as opening a restaurant, an antique shop, or a nursery to sell gardening supplies.

NONA CHERN

Mrs. Nona Chern is a decisive, self-assured professor who knows her material, and has definite feelings about education.

Nona Chern has taught every grade from Kindergarten to 12th except fourth; this is perhaps one reason why she is so knowledgeable. Before joining the Elementary Education Dept. at WCSC nine years ago, she was a grade school teacher, the Reading Co-ordinator for Upland Schools, and the Language Arts/Reading Co-ordinator for Rosetree-Media Schools. She received her Master's degree in Reading from Penn, and is now working on her dissertation at Temple.

Several years after Mrs. Chern joined the WCSC faculty, a trend toward better teacher training in reading began. Mrs. Chern was in the forefront for more reading courses as well as a concentration in reading for the Elementary Education major.

Her ideas were often met by conflicting opinions, but finally, two years ago, a new reading program, first taught by Mrs. Chern, was implemented. The program offers a concentration in reading to Elementary Education majors.

Although Mrs. Chern's main interest is teaching reading to children, she acknowledges that, "All good teachers are teachers of reading, but something else is more important. As teachers, we have to know a great deal about ourselves before we can teach children."

MISS MAXWELL

Miss Maxwell, a graduate of Whittier College who received her degree in music, speech pathology and psychology, has been teaching at West Chester for seven years. She holds a steadfast conviction that her students are capable of attaining their goals in the field of speech pathology. Having already published journals, made films, and presented papers at national conventions, her next plan is to work towards a doctorate. One of her devotions is toward handicapped children and she hopes that more handicapped students will attend West Chester in the future.

Miss Maxwell's interests are many and varied, leaving one to wonder where she finds time to pursue them all. Her favorite hobby, flute playing, is enriched by her collection of over two hundred figurines and flutists. She also gives lectures on antique musical instruments. We can sympathize with her choice of pet peeves which include architectural barriers, noise, pollution and people with unpleasant voices. A lover of pizza, crepe suzettes and San Francisco, Miss Maxwell has successfully integrated an exceptionally noteworthy teaching career with an equally vibrant personality.

MRS. BARTLETT

Mrs. Bartlett feels that she knows the students in the Social Work Program at West Chester well. She advises them as sophomores before they are accepted into the program and is available to them as advisor and friend throughout the program.

Mrs. Bartlett served on the advisory committee to the Social Work Program prior to its inception in 1972. She joined the faculty at West Chester State College in 1972, and is now also the faculty Advisor to the Community Services Committee. Mrs. Bartlett is involved with the Women's Center on campus, working with Drs. Hemphill and Gutwirth on some of its activities, and has suggested that several students do their volunteer placement there.

Mrs. Bartlett was involved in local politics and used the sing with Singing City in Philadelphia. "But not any more," she says — working with the Social Work Program and caring for her family has somewhat limited her involvement in other activities. She still finds time for travel, though, especially to Colorado and California, where two sons attend college. She also has a son who attends West Chester part-time and a daughter enrolled in a private school in the area.

Despite 17 years of dedicated work in his field of interest Hank E. Goodwin, Associate Professor of Health and Physical Education, is still wet behind the ears. Why? Because Goodwin directs weekly Atypical swim sessions, and can't resist being part of the element that makes up his classroom. This is evident to anyone who has attended any of the classes he instructs. Physical Activity for Special Children, Safety Education, Aquatic Leadership, Psychology of Physical Disability, and Physical Disabilities of Childhood.

Since his first experience working with crippled children at a camp while a college sophomore, Goodwin has enthusiastically devoted himself to his field. He strives to make education more human, working to evoke positive feelings and attitudes in his students. "The course isn't as important as the kids in it," Goodwin feels. Goodwin's philosophy of focusing on doing what you can is clearly exemplified in his work with the physically disabled, such as the Atyp swims. He feels that if he can help someone through such an activity, if only during that hour, it's worth it.

When Goodwin is not involved in teaching he is probably on the handball court, pursuing another of his interests. But whether in the classroom or on the court, Goodwin always adheres to a basic concept he holds about how to behave: Living is fun.

Larry Dorminy has two ambitions in life: to sing very well, and to sail around the world.

Although he considers himself a newcomer in the music department, Mr. Dorminy has been teaching here for five years. This semester, in addition to his many private students, he directs the men's chorus, mixed chorus, and women's glee club. He is also finishing up his doctorate at Indiana University.

He has been involved in various college theatre organizations, among them the musical theatre group and several School of Music productions including 4 operas, two musicals, and a dramatic ballet, and has staged and directed such productions as Guys and Dolls and 110 in the Shade. Mr. Dorminy feels that activities such as these are important since they offer students the chance to experience music through actual performance. Though many music students are planning on teaching careers, the basic interest of each is, of course, the art of performing.

Mr. Dorminy feels that "the School of Music doesn't get the recognition it deserves, that too often West Chester is overlooked simply because it is a state-operated institution." Compared with those of the several other colleges where he has worked, West Chester's School of Music seems to him to be of the highest caliber; 90% of the faculty perform themselves; moreover, the interest in performance shared by faculty and students forms a close bond between the two. Mr. Dorminy admits however, that the School's somewhat cliquish nature is attributed to the extra hours and individual instruction essential to music study.

Mr. Dorminy's favorite diversion is sailing. He owns a 30-foot sailboat and spends many of his weekends on Chesapeake Bay. He finds sailing rewarding as well as aesthetically pleasing, adding that it is far-removed from his work here at West Chester.

In the words of Dr. Dorris Guerrin, the role of the modern nurse is, "to help patients meet personal requirements that they are unable to perform for themselves." West Chester's School of Nursing is helping students to meet this challenge in a rapidly changing environment.

Although West Chester's department is small at present, comprised of 220 upper-level students, only one of whom is male, Dr. Guerrin believes it is competitive. She attributes the strength of the Nursing Department to its many bright students.

Dr. Guerrin believes that the role of the nurse is changing from that of a physician's subordinate to that of a competent and independent professional. Although they naturally work closely with physicians, nurses' responsibilities toward patients are quite different — embracing activities that, in fact physicians rarely involve themselves with.

When asked about her rapport with Nursing students, Dr. Guerrin explained that she attempts to gain an overview of each student as an individual. "I try to see the whole student; not only as a potential nurse, but as a human being."

However, even prior to the advent of a National Championship award, the team was highly successful, if somewhat less heralded.

The coach for the team is Yvonne Gros, who came to West Chester in 1963. Miss Gros received her Masters in Education at Villanova University and has always been interested in athletics. Even now, though much of her time is spent with the hockey team, she finds energy for golf and cross-country skiing. She has participated in some local golf tournaments, but feels she doesn't have the time to go beyond local competition.

Miss Gros has coached the Women's Field Hockey Team since she came to West Chester State. She says that "I have taken the initiative in the country to change the style of play in Women's Field Hockey. There is a whole new look in playing the game. The players have more freedom." Her methods are obviously successful, as West Chester's record attests.

Participating on the national championship team will, of course, give its members the right background to qualify for the Olympic Women's Field Hockey Team. The first time Women's Field Hockey will be played will be in the 1980 Olympics. Miss Gros is sure that some West Chester State women will try to make the team, especially since some have already participated with the World Championship team in Vancouver, British Columbia.

The Women's Field Hockey Team at West Chester State College has been the National Champion for two years — for both years the award has been given.

Campaign '76

"Who will you vote for?"

This became an important question on the campus as the final moments of the 1976 Presidential election campaign drew to a close. And two significant features of this campaign were the apparent student concern over the choice of a president and the exuberance of students about their respective choices.

The race was a close one. Both Jerry Ford and Jimmy Carter campaigned to the wire, with the result an extremely close vote. Pennsylvania figured as an important block of electoral votes, and this fact added to the excitement on campus as the Chester County vote came into the national eye.

As might be expected, student attitudes toward the outcomes of the Presidential race were varied. Many students expressed uneasiness about the fact that if Carter were elected the nation would be "at the mercy of" a Democratic President as well as a Democratic Congress, a power block that they believed would effectively destroy the balance previously established between a Republican President and a Democratic Congress. Other students were convinced that with the rapport that would be established between Carter and the Democratic Congress, needed legislation could be passed without the animosity of conflicting political views.

Just as every election must have a winner, there must also be a loser and a body of disgruntled supporters. Some students who had supported the incumbent President, Gerald Ford, expressed the view that they could not understand the selection for President of a man with little public exposure prior to his race for election. They regarded the Watergate scandal of Richard Nixon's second term as one detrimental factor in Ford's bid for re-election. However, they believed that Gerald Ford had proved his ability by restoring order at a crucial point in America's history. Although they could not point to substantial improvements in employment or other areas of public interest, they believed that he had performed adequately and that the American people had been unified behind their executive with a minimum of dissent.

The other camp, those who had voted for or supported Governor Jimmy Carter, viewed the fact that he had done no harm as an insufficient reason for re-electing Ford. Most believed that Carter would perform well once in office, and many were attracted to Carter because of charismatic appeal, a characteristic of a candidate that has not been seen since the election of John Kennedy, whose wit and appearance made him popular with the American people and helped him to defeat Richard Nixon. Once again, it seemed that the President was elected as a result of his "popular appeal".

The positive side of this election, however, did not lie only in the choice of the President, but in the resurgence of public interest in the election, an attitude reflected on West Chester State's campus. This attitude was reflected in the especially large voter turnout on Election Day. Hopefully, this indicates that citizens are becoming enthusiastic once again about our political system and will become more deeply involved in the processes that determine national policy than has been the case in recent years.

WINGLESS

she stood in the technicolor glow of the burned orange sun splashed on bright blue waves of sky flowing softly into a green emerald field

the young man with a guru smile paused from his being to hear her dream and knowing her whispered wish he said believe then he faded

she pondered while the lovers and the children wove and danced among the floating multicolored frisbees

she shook her copper waves of hair she laughing floated up and higher higher than wingless flew away

GROPING

Composed in the body of hanging smoke, Inhaling hope and garbage, I attempt to salvage some sense from the recompense you offered. Now with ashtrays full I pull out another pack, still lacking reason.

CURIOSITY

*Arm curled around uncombed head, warm face pressed on cool wood,
hand grasping edge of printed page.
The body rests rigidly motionless, only bloodless feet are truly asleep.
Words grow large, their meanings long since blurred, print runs together as subjects form accordion folds in an empty shell.
Lamplight glints on the hair of head.
So reading on—till personality becomes page and lines that courted the dreamer stifle a passion vivisected once too often.*

WEST CHESTER

Many students shop on Gay Street; a main street in West Chester.

This historic structure, thought to be built in 1818, was part of the underground railroad back then. Many students pass by the building on their way to the college, for it sits right off N. High Street on the West Chester Country Club golf course.

A History of the Borough of West Chester

Both the English and the Dutch traded along the Delaware River in the early seventeenth century until 1643, when the Swedes established a permanent colony at a place they called Upland. European military and political machinations finally resulted in the assignment of the proprietorship of this area to England, so when William Penn petitioned Charles II, in 1680, for a grant of land as payment for a debt that the king owed his father's estate, Penn received rights to the tract he called Pennsylvania.

William Penn had a great deal in common with the young college graduates of our own day. Between his father and himself, there occurred a wide generation gap that was just barely healed before his father's death. They disagreed on religion, politics, dress, and almost everything else, because the old Admiral represented the establishment and young William approved of none of it. Furthermore, he was very vocal with his opinions and intermittently put in jail for what he preached. While in goal, he spent his time writing tracts and essays to defend his position. And he knew the law, for he had read the law at Lincoln's Inn. He knew his Bible, too, and declared that Quakerism, that radical upstart religion that he had joined, was much nearer the faith of the very early Christians than the Catholicism whose later establishment had muddied it—an attitude that did not exactly endear him to James II with whom he had to deal after Charles died, since James privately practiced the Catholic faith.

Penn differed with the establishment all his life. But, he did it intelligently, with reason and knowledge. For that we can be most grateful, for when he laid down the rules for governing Pennsylvania, he insisted on complete religious freedom, freedom before the law, the right of trial by jury, and the right of all Christians owning certain amounts of property to vote and hold office. Murder and treason were the only offences that carried a death penalty. All these ideas were new and radical in his day when a man would commonly be hung for stealing a loaf of bread.

When he came here to lay out the city of Philadelphia, he used Upland as his base since it offered an already settled community (the Swedes had stayed), but he changed the name to Chester. He made Chester the county seat for all the land that he marked out—to extend even west of the Brandywine—and called it Delaware. It was the first county in our state.

All his land he purchased from the Indians, and his fair methods of dealing with the tribes preserved Pennsylvania from any hostilities with them as long as he lived. Voltaire said that Penn's 1683 treaty was "the only treaty not sworn to and never broken". As a Quaker, Penn could never take an oath.

Then, Penn parcelled out this large Delaware County in Land Grants, chiefly to his Quaker friends who came to escape the persecution they experienced in England.

Almost a hundred years later, in 1780, the Assembly of Pennsylvania decided to divide Delaware County into two, and it called the western half Chester. It authorized the erection of a courthouse and jail near the Turk's Head Tavern. The new building was finished in 1786, and because ten Justices of the Peace sat on the bench, the community grew rapidly. Naturally enough, the new county seat soon became known as West Chester.

In 1812, the State established a Normal School here to train teachers. This school consisted of one building on High Street, known as Old Main. Our legislators in Harrisburg saw fit a few years ago to replace it with our present imposing edifice called New Main.

West Chester, aside from its background as a seat of justice, developed into a market center for the buying of farming needs and the selling of produce, for Chester County was a rich farming and dairying land. Its rural development paralleled that of farming communities all over our country during the nineteenth century.

World War II changed it, just as it changed everything in our lives. Today, very few farms remain. Much of the land has turned into housing developments, and Greater West Chester, the town and the surrounding townships, has become one large suburban mass to which people of all accents move in order to be near the industrial metropolises of Philadelphia and Wilmington. Citizens from far and wide no longer understand when they hear that this or that new housing development lies on some of the original Land Grants of William Penn. Most of the old Quaker names listed in the telephone directory seem lost among the multitudes of the new ones that have been added.

William Penn would have undoubtedly understood this change and approved; he was that kind of man.

Dr. Freeman

Coordinator of the Special Education Certification Programs, Dr. Freeman has an eager desire for change and improvement in the education curriculum. Most recently, he has been instrumental in revising the Early Childhood Program.

The "best thing that ever happened" to Dr. Freeman was attending Millersville State from 1946-1949. He met, wooed, and married his wife, Mitzi, within those three years. Dr. Freeman "found himself" at Millersville because he encountered people there that were unlike those he had known in Kensington, where he was raised. Professor Freeman says that Millersville gave him the "best of a college life" because it was a "human place." Since Millersville "opened new doors" for him, he is trying to do the same for students at West Chester.

Dr. Freeman and his wife have two children, Matthew and Dorcie, and a terrier they call Muffin. In his spare time, Dr. Freeman enjoys gardening and the relaxation of swimming. His future plans include a sabbatical and a trip to Israel. Professor Freeman says he would like to teach in Israel for a year because of the pleasurable experiences he had when he visited there for 3 weeks in June 1976.

James R. Wells

The spark behind the color, snap and sound of the Golden Ram Marching Band is Dr. James R. Wells. Under his direction, the band has swelled to 225 members, appeared on national television, and presented solid shows featuring contemporary charts and movements which enhance the music. The result is a quality aesthetic experience for spectators and training for future music educators.

Off the field, Dr. Wells presents courses ranging from Fine Arts Music through Chamber Music and Jazz, as well as a seminar on Marching Band Techniques for which he wrote the text. His office is the hectic hub of band officers' activities as well as fertile ground for big ideas: educational manuals and films and plans for the National/International Music Festival, an adjudicatory setting for all types of musical organizations based in five cities of the United States and Canada.

Dr. Wells also directs the annual Marching Band and Band Front Conference and Workshop, the largest clinic for students and directors in existence.

Anne Sessa

Anne Sessa has been a faculty member at West Chester State College since 1968. She received her Ph.D in History from the University of Delaware in 1973. She regularly serves on various school and departmental committees and is now a member of the Graduate Committee for the History Department, the Search Committee for the Dean of Academic Services, and the Affirmative Action Committee. She is also on the Faculty Senate, which acts as an advisory committee for all college issues.

Dr. Sessa spent the summer of 1973 teaching Pennsylvania students in Salzburg, Austria. She was chosen by the P.C.I.E. — Pennsylvania Consortium for International Education — a state-wide organization which encourages students to study abroad.

Women's Studies is another of Dr. Sessa's interests. She feels that women's studies programs are an intellectually exciting field of study and is now teaching "Women in Politics" — a political science course offered for the first time this semester. She has also taught "Women in Modern Europe".

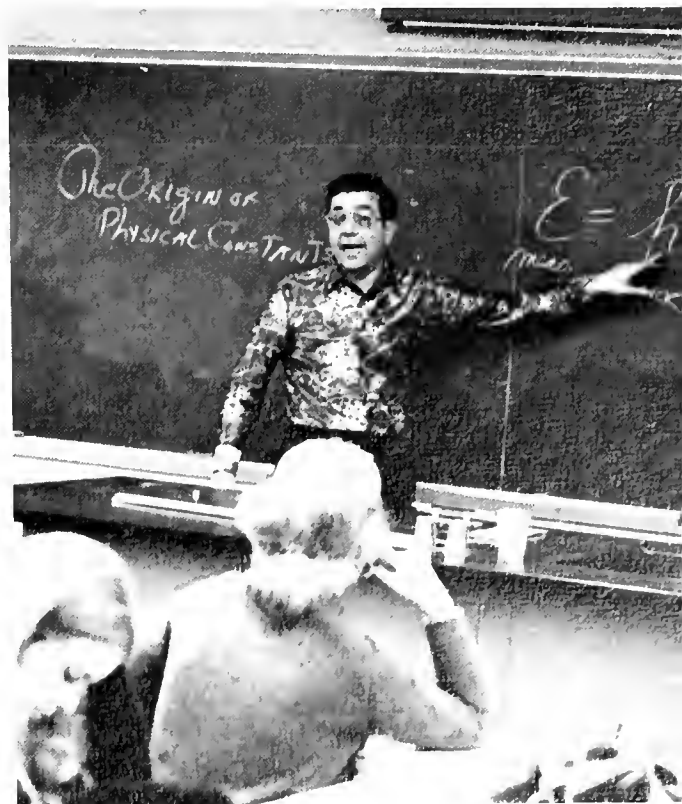

Lou Casciato

Lou Casciato, an associate professor in the Earth Sciences Department, enjoys the notoriety of having founded West Chester State's chapter of F.U.S.E., the Federation for Unified Science Education.

Conceived at Ohio State University, which now serves as the clearinghouse for the six regional F.U.S.E. centers in the United States, the program is aimed toward "scientific literacy for all," in Professor Casciato's words. Although F.U.S.E. does not write programs for the 360 schools which employ its services, it does provide guidelines and models to unify science education. Unified science education, according to Professor Casciato, includes both the Social and Behavioral sciences and stresses the "... interplay between science and society."

Professor Casciato's role in the development of F.U.S.E. on West Chester's campus is especially significant since all of the labor is gratis, according to Lou, a "labor of love." He plans to attend an international conference of science educators in the Netherlands next April with hopes that an international network of F.U.S.E. centers can be established.

In addition to his responsibilities as F.U.S.E. co-ordinator and Associate Professor at West Chester State, Mr. Casciato is actively involved with the Catholic Youth Organization. His hobbies include deep sea fishing and attending basketball games at his alma mater, St. Joe's!

MARTIAN SPACE TRAVEL

A martian usually travels via thought wave. This is a most expedient method by which a martian may traverse his universe. The required technique is simple — the martian rides on the energy of a telekinetic thought, refusing access in his brain to considerations of time or wayward action. Mind transport, however, is an unexciting and often tedious procedure. He hasn't, during his trip, the capability of noticing a particularly colourful nebula or sniffing some novel and potent arrangement of atoms. His brain will not register sensory input once it has decided upon a destination. For the purpose of his journey he denies himself the delights of the universe.

There is another, infinitely more pleasurable means of space travel available to a martian.

There is a merry-go-round in the forest. It is of the type that is equipped with a metal bar apparatus that can be pushed and pulled by hands and feet and their logical extensions, arms and legs, to make the merry-go-round go. The technique is similar to that of rowing a boat. There are two rowing apparatuses on the merry-go-round. At the second oar must sit someone of either sex whom he loves. He may set the merry-go-round in motion by running around it and pushing it, then jumping on and working the rowing apparatus. His partner, seated a diameter across from him, does likewise.

If the merry-go-round goes fast enough the centrifugal force may be sufficient to lift off the ground and it may spin merrily and timelessly through space. The power that propels him, whirling, towards his partner and her or him towards the martian is love. It feeds on itself, with some physical assistance provided by their rowing, and they fly. The universe is realized and comes home through their love as they travel through space.

When a martian has nothing special to do he may sometimes attempt this method by his lonesome. He may hope someday to fly by virtue of the love he is able to feel for himself. The idea is a theoretical improbability, but early experiments show encouraging results.

There's fun to be found on the merry-go-round though it should remain confined to the ground, so I think I'll go to the park and practice.

"Round and around on the merry-go-round,

Round and around and around," I sing, listening at the same time for a distant strain of the music of the spheres.

COBBLESTONES FOR BREAKFAST

On eight o'clock early-up mornings, I often have cobblestones for breakfast. Only for breakfast with fancy frost-sugar. When the young light illuminates lower-levels and the ground groans of earthworms and sparrows, I walk to work and contemplate cobblestones. When brisk steps sound softly on stark-lit stones and head-down determined day thoughts roll ahead, I consume the calm cobblestone descent to work.

At lunch the light is level with eyes, brightening bikes and carrying cars along the shiny streets. Strolling to the post office, I pass people pleasantly waving and then smile soaking sights and sounds of sunny-light. Thinking thoughts of now, no notice of cobblestone slopes. Yet sometimes, begging for attention, they trick the toes to tripping. But I slip and look to see who saw, still oblivious to cobblestones for lunch.

In the deep dusk of dinner hour the light lifts over-head high, enlightening the heights with drifting dreams. Up still stone slopes I wander home, while my eyes rise with floating thoughts of twenty years tomorrow. In the inky eve of dinner time, cobblestones sleep under shadow, for my tranquility walks undisturbed.

RECREATION

FUN TIMES FOR ALL

At some time all of us at W.C. need to refresh our minds and bodies after a hard day of classes. On such occasion, nothing builds up the spirit more than a good game of volleyball, basketball, football, or maybe softball.

For those who really enjoy exercise, each dorm has bikes that may be rented just by showing an I.D. South Campus offers recreational swims and North Campus has a fine track that many students use regularly.

Organized recreation such as intramurals takes place at both North and South campus. Any group of students can form a team.

If there's one thing you learn in your four years at W.C., however, it's how to throw a frisbee. And the more daring student may even learn to use a skateboard! Tennis has become another popular favorite for those who want all around exercise and enjoyment.

Events such as Spring Weekend are popular on campus. Each dorm competes in various "Almost Anything Goes" activities. It always proves to be a fun weekend—not only for those involved, but for the spectators as well.

"Where'd everybody go?"

Group volleyball games are an everyday occurrence, sometimes lasting until dark.

"The Rat"

"The Anvil"

No yearbook would be complete without a catalogue of West Chester bars, since they form a focal point of College recreation. Although West Chester State has often been described as a "suitcase college", since the campus is literally deserted on weekends, many students seek entertainment on Thursday night before they leave for the weekend. This fact is evident any Thursday night, particularly at the Rathskellar where you will find it almost impossible to get a drink without fighting your way through a line at the bar two or three persons deep. But it should quickly be added that there are other bars in the area where students can enjoy themselves and even be able to move once they're inside.

To be accurate about the Rathskellar, I would have to begin by saying that its popularity may well be a result of its closeness to the campus. It is not a good bar for a daytime or between-class drink, since it does not open until three P.M., but it does offer disco music, dancing, and sandwiches. You may be taking your life into your own hands if you attend on a Thursday night, but if you enjoy contact sports you will probably have a good time.

Jake's Bar, previously known as the J-R Bar and the J-Bar, is more of a drinker's bar. Entertainment is limited to drinking, shuffleboard, and a bowling game. It is a small bar with a pleasant atmosphere, and although not really quiet, will afford more relaxation than a disco bar. Your chances of being carded are good, for Jake tries to maintain a particular level of clientele, mainly those over twenty-one.

The Courtyard Inn in the Parkway Shopping Center is another popular West Chester State bar. It offers a varied menu, both in the dining area and the bar area. Its highlight is the giant-screen television where many students watch the "big game" of the week. Unless you are an avid sports fan you might feel uncomfortable among the hoots and groans, but you will be relatively safe in the bar area because it is separated from the television area by a partition.

The Anvil Inn has for a long time enjoyed the patronage of West Chester State and was at one time the most popular college bar in the area, offering top rock bands and a variety of games. More recently, the dress code was modified to exclude blue-jeaned patrons and the appeal of a casual night spot was lost. However, The Anvil Inn still offers top quality entertainment and is popular with many students at West Chester State.

Probably the most important bar in the history of West Chester State is Joe's Sportsman's Lounge at the corner of Wayne street and Gay street. If you've been a student at West Chester long enough, say, since 1973, you may remember Thursday nights when you would have to wait in line to be admitted into the bar and were often turned away because there just wasn't any more room. Sound crazy? Maybe, but it's absolutely true. And Joe's popularity didn't depend on music, disco or otherwise. It was just a good place to have a good time. Although Joe's no longer enjoys the volume of business of previous years, the bar still retains sentimental value for some older students and graduates of West Chester.

There is, of course, as with all good things, a dark side. As much fun as you may have on a Thursday night, there is the inevitable morning after. Because the author enjoys these evenings at least as well as any other student, I can tell you from long experience that there is little you can do to prevent that feeling of near-death, except to drink lots of milk before you start and try to get at least five hours of sleep after you finish. This "morning-after effect" is particularly noticeable in Friday classes, as many students will have observed. But the following Thursday night will bring just as many students back to the bars in what seems to be an unalterable process. Creatures of habit? Maybe. Masochists? Very possibly. A classic facet of student life? Definitely!!!!

Home parties are the best . . .

You can watch it begin.

From 11:00 Thursday morning until well into the next day, most of the college's resident students are busy packing their suitcases. By Friday night, they are all on their way back home, and a campus previously alive with people is now almost deserted.

Those who remain, though, feel uplifted by a strange feeling of lightness. For them, West Chester has become their own "back home." Time now to relax and release the tensions that a week of booking has created. So what about the exam in Advanced Calculus that will greet you come Monday morning!

This is Friday, bringing a cheery humor comparable to the effect of the color yellow. As preparations begin for an evening of playing cards, going to the movies or a frat party, or sitting in front of the TV, we start to unwind and unscramble our thousand thoughts concerning what's to be done when.

If the grayness that accompanies West Chester's rain does not descend to make a sepulchre of our community, Saturday can be a day of rustic joy. Whether at a football game, or on a walk in the country, we take with us a simple solace such as one receives from cocoa, walnuts, or copper pennies.

Sooner or later, Saturday ends with partying, and like a red-orange fire we flame with a daring defiance to step to the top of the world. From the raven black recesses of our inner being emerge impulses that, if expressed, leave us feeling refreshed, if not embarrassed.

And to Sunday, the day of rest, we let our alabaster innocence take over to enable us to enjoy, and, probably, recover. Sleep, study-rest.

Weekends offer an opportunity for us to witness a similar strain of color sweeping through us all. Although means of expression vary, we all need the time to be totally irresponsible, even childish, once a week. It is what maintains our sanity, and enables us to face the coming week of books and brainstorm.

West Chester State students demonstrate their enthusiasm for the Golden Ram football team.

An invigorating bike ride is a pleasant way to spend a Saturday afternoon.

Weekends are not only a time for fun. They are a time to catch up on studying.

BREAK FUN FEVER

Spring Break brings leisure time that all students of West Chester, regardless of their interests, make good use of by engaging in a variety of pastimes. Those of us who escaped to the beaches and bars of Florida returned with countless memories that will fade far less quickly than those beautiful tans. A student's only criticism of spring vacation could be that it is not followed by a recuperation period. Rather, students are thrust from idleness into mass hysteria as school nears an end while the work has only just begun.

"I know I forgot something!"

"What did you do on your Spring Break?"

Students relax before entering Disney World.

Florida's beaches are a main attraction.

A CONVERSATION

"Come and lay beside me," says the All-American Queen.

Lying on the sofa that way she reminds him of a cat, expanding and contracting her claws. So, scratch me one more time. How can I make her understand that the floor's more comfortable? I can stretch out, full length and if I want to read, I just raise the book over my head. It's my life, after all.

From the corner of his eye, he sees the freshly painted toenails. Fifth Avenue, Market Street, Broadway, television, legal secretaries, cozy, classy "joints" sheltered by towering steel and glass totems, small talk and matching wit, prizes of achievement.

"How about a little drink after work, sweet thang?", drooling from countless fangs onto paisley ties and New York suits.

Fantasy must have its reign, what my father would call a poor attitude. Let's recede a little more!

Hygienically speaking, what are the advantages of wearing boxer shorts as opposed to briefs? Is "Mamma dementia" caused by a diet deficiency or by excessive athletic activity?

Questions of mortality as such, negligible.

Some people say, "Dress me up and take me out. Lie to me but keep me happy." Under a lace cloth, what is a table?

She slips off her shoes, slowly, easily. Allurement is nigh, the cat has seemingly mesmerized the prey. I'll pretend I'm unconcerned. Don't show me a leg. I'll bit it.

"Come and lay beside me," reiterates the All-American Queen. Come, please come, and stare down my v-necked sweater, but be discreet. Don't let me catch you or I might be embarrassed. Please remember that appearances are for their own sake.

"I can't get comfortable up there," he lies. Besides, my neck hurts from reading this book over my head.

It's my life, after all.

GINNY HAS A HEART OF GOLD

Ginny has a heart of gold. I know, because she showed it to me.

Without even turning her back, she just slipped it out, and even let me hold it. It's not as shiny as you'd think, and it didn't weigh as much as I thought it would. Actually, it was kind of soft, and I was surprised none of it rubbed off in my hands. Then she told me it has several practical accessories for easy home use. She also said how nice it was to have because they're very valuable on the open market and it's very good to know you have that security. I said it was very nice.

Each year the Cultural Affairs Dept. schedules a variety of outstanding individuals or group performances. This year, for example, the All-Star Series featured the New Shakespeare company, which presented "As You Like It". It also sponsored Roberta Peters (soprano), Van Cliburn (pianist), and the Minnesota Symphony Orchestra. The Chamber Music Series brought the de Pasquale String Quartet.

The Philips Lecture Series included such speakers as John Marks (author of "The C.I.A."), William McDonald ("The Cousteau Story"), and Nikki Giovanni (author, poet, and lecturer).

Little Theatre

Dramatic changes, starting with a move from the third floor of Recitation Hall to the basement of the Learning Research Center, have led to a rebirth of Little Theatre. Very few remnants of 'old 208' remain in the Studio Theatre or the Turk's Head Playhouse. The established tradition of mounting four major productions a year has been scrapped in favor of staging nine within the same period of time. Students who had formerly confined their speciality to one area of production quickly learned that this outlook had no place in an organization that depended on every body pulling together.

Theatre people share experiences. This is why the excitement and thrill of West Chester's brand of Broadway is evident . . . the anxious moments waiting for the cast list to be posted . . . the frustration of blocking a scene . . . not only drawing flats to scale, but also making them . . . missing another light or sound cue during a technical rehearsal that has run unbearably long . . . and on, and on, and on, . . . until

The West Chester State Outward Bound Program — a mini-course styled after the international program — was developed a few years ago by Emlyn Jones, a staff member of the Health and Physical Education department. This program, which Mr. Jones has taught since its inception, with the assistance of Bob Nye and Barry Remley, has been the focus of his interest while at West Chester, and occupies much of his time — both in school and out. The course teaches outdoor pursuits, including “Orienteering” (map reading and use of a compass), rock-climbing, canoeing, and back-packing. Cycling may be added in the future. After practicing in the local area all semester, the class spends ten days off the coast of Virginia, perfecting its skills. Each student spends one twenty-four hour period completely alone (“solo”) with only a simple shelter. The goal of the course is self-development for each student. It is offered as a two credit, one semester course, open to all students during the Spring Semester of each year.

Mr. Jones is also active in the International Outward Bound Program. He spends his summers in North Carolina working with the International group. Mr. Jones also helps high schools develop programs geared to assist the delinquent or potential drop-out student, and works as a consultant to the R.C.A. Corporation establishing similar programs for that company. He is a graduate of West Chester State College, with a Master’s degree in Physical Education. He has been a faculty member since 1968, when he graduated. He teaches other physical activities and supervises student teaching for the Health and Physical Education Department. His interests also include photography and cabinet-making but he spends little time on each because of his involvement in Outward Bound.

THE SHOW GOES ON

Musical Theatre Company

Herr Schultz (Bill King) presents his lady-love Fraulein Schneider (Lisa D'lorio) with a gift.

The musical is a uniquely American art form. The Musical Theatre Company (MTC) is dedicated to producing musicals for the West Chester audience. Students desiring the experience can act, dance, sing, direct, design, and do technical work. Although it is an entirely student-run organization, MTC became affiliated this year with Little Theatre. While maintaining the autonomy of MTC, this merger allowed for the free exchange of resources and ideas between the two troupes.

Musical Theatre Company celebrated its fifth anniversary with the production of Cabaret in November. H. John McFadden was director, and James Weber was musical director. Cabaret, which sold out for two performances, was the greatest box office success in MTC's history. However, the greatest success was not in receipts, but rather in the personal pride and feeling of teamwork generated by an enthusiastic audience and a job well done.

The MC (Paul Sheriff) bids patrons "Wilkomen" to cabaret.

Champaign and conversation are the chief source of enjoyment in the idle lives of a generation of pre-Nazi Berliners.

Sally Bowles (Jodi Daley) feels "Perfectly Marvelous" after finding a practical solution to her homeless-dilema — move in with Cliff!

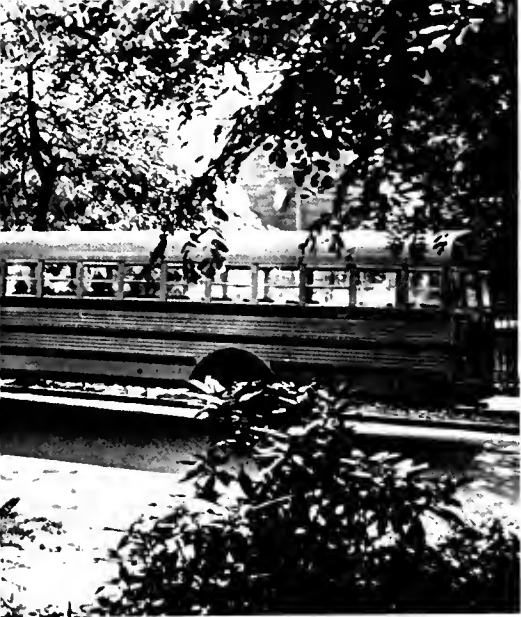

"English is not like German. It is not an exact language," complains student Ernst Ludwig (Drew Birch) to his American tutor Cliff Bradshaw (Stuart Fredericks).

HOW DO YOU DRESS?

Typical of most W.C. students, this girl prefers the casual look. Scarves are a popular accessory to any outfit.

Many men around campus are now wearing hats such as this one.

Corduroys, a shirt, and a hooded sweatshirt are comfortable attire for the man on campus.

Gauchos, boots, and a midi all-weather coat are the latest style.

This is your average phys. ed. major off to class.

Sneakers and jeans are still the most popular attire of college students.

Frat jackets have always been popular.

Lettered t-shirts have become a popular favorite—sending almost any message possible.

Cowl neck sweaters are perfect for walking around campus on a chilly day.

Some students still wear a dress now and then!

ROUTINES

Dudley Backup awoke as he always did — tired and mad at the world. He fell out of bed and felt the cold morning.

"Goddamn radiator," he mumbled, "let's get a little heat around here." The radiator immediately zoomed out the window. The apartment began warming up.

"What time is it?" he thought to himself. It was past noon; he was late again. "To hell with my boss," he thought. His boss went to hell. Dudley went to make coffee. The doorbell rang.

"Who's that?" It was the paperboy.

"You owe me four weeks," the small boy said.

"Drop dead," Dudley answered. The boy fell over on the sidewalk. Dudley went to get coffee. "Gimme some sugar," he growled, searching around. Sugar fell into his cup.

"You're crazy," Dudley said. His mother began salivating and babbling incoherently. Dudley went out. A group of high school girls walked by. "Hey Dudley," they called in unison. Surprised, Dudley turned around. "Backup and park right," they shrieked and began falling down from laughing.

"Kiss my ass," Dudley retorted, harshly. The girls scurried and began obediently embracing him, pulling his pants off.

"Get lost," he said impatiently. The girls disappeared (and were never found). Dudley put his pants on and walked away. His landlord approached, shouting emphatically.

"I don't wanna hear it," Dudley said. The landlord became mute but continued gesturing wildly. Dudley continued walking with the landlord following. At the end of the street a car nearly hit them.

"Go to hell," Dudley called to the driver. The driver went to hell.

"You go to hell too," another motorist called to Dudley. Dudley went to hell. "What am I doing here?" he thought, looking around. "Get me out of here."

The landlord was still on the sidewalk, "What do you want?" Dudley asked. The landlord wanted money. "That's a bunch of shit," Dudley answered. It was a bunch of shit. His mother came running after them. The mute landlord ran up to her, gesturing madly. She began babbling.

"They're both crazy," Dudley thought. The two began babbling and falling on each other. It began raining.

"Christ Almighty," Dudley said, "The world's a bunch of shit, isn't it?" And that was that.

WEST CHESTER ON THE

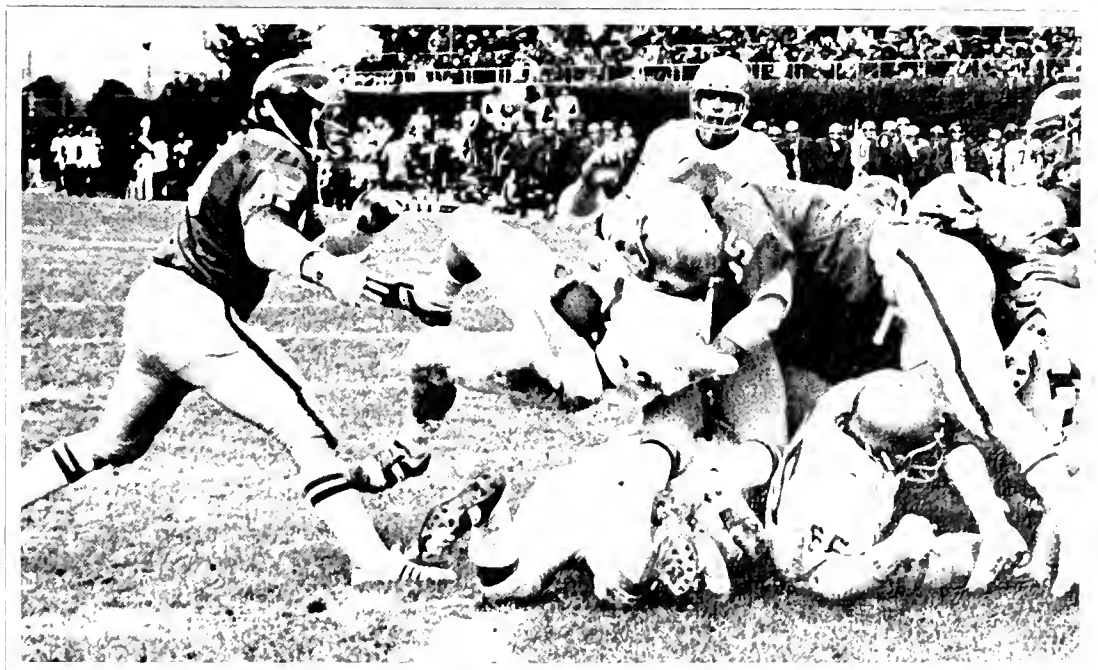

MOVE

West Chester's offense rips up the yardage in one play over Rutzborn.

Sometimes even doing your best is not enough.

Blystone breaks the plane of the goal line for West Chester's only goal against the University of Delaware.

A "very physical and hard hitting defense," "an explosive offense" are two of the terms with which fans and players described the power of a team that held some very capable opposing runners to minimal yardage. Dave Sharpless, a senior defensive lineman standout, reigned over a defense that committed few mistakes but that often caused fumbles and made interceptions that gave the ball to some powerful runners of our own. With the leadership of Atkinson and Breaux, and the running ability of Blystone and other backs, the offense showed the determination characteristic of the Golden Rams. The spirit and experience of the '76 team is indicative of an even better record for the '77 season.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Small in numbers, small in size, but huge in spirit, the freshman football squad played four of their six games away from home after only three short weeks of practice. This year's squad was determined to perform well against the junior varsity teams it faced—and it battled each opponent to within just 11 points.

The offense, throughout the season, was slow starting but became very active after the hard-hitting defense set the pace. The defense held its opponents to no more than two touchdowns a game. Its lack of numbers and physical size was overshadowed by its abundance of spirit, determination, and power.

Icing a painful hand

Soccer—a team deserving more credit than its record indicates. Many of the games were disappointing 1-0 or 2-0 losses. But the only team clearly able to dominate West Chester in the '76 season was the University of Delaware—a tribute to the excellent defensive squad. The team is sorry to lose to graduation captain George Claypoole, a fine example of stability and maturity characteristic of the members of the team. However, Claypoole's coaches and teammates are optimistic about the '77 season because the team boasts many fine junior and sophomore players.

FOUND: Women's Varsity Field Hockey, coached by Vonnie Gros and co-captained by Roseanne Smith and Cheryl Holland—second time AIAW National Champs.

Coach Vonnie Gros can be nothing but proud of her 1976 hockey squad. During regular season play, the Ramettes compiled an undefeated record of 8 wins and 3 ties. During tournament play, the squad did even better—with an undefeated, untied record of 8 wins, overcoming opponents it had tied in the regular season. In fact, the Ramettes defense (anchored by goalie Lee Gerdes) yielded only two goals in tournament play!

As members of the freshman team at the college whose varsity squad won the National Championship, our younger hockey players felt the pressure, and showed the determination, to achieve their utmost. The entire season was one of preparation, self-motivation, and willingness to play as a team; and it was a successful one. The record of 9 wins and 1 loss indicates outstanding possibilities for the varsity team which this year's freshman players will soon join.

Climb "suicide hill" during a 5 mile run and experience the agony of a cross country runner. Perform this feat in 15 meets during a short season and learn why endurance is a necessity for a cross country runner. And while doing all this as a team, even through rain, puddles, or mud, have enough collective strength to compile a record of 9 wins and 4 losses, place 5th in both the Paul Short Invitational and the East Coast Conference Championships, and anchor a 13th standing in the all important ICAAAA Championship—and you'll be the WCSC Cross Country Team.

While performing these gruelling tasks, three of our 12-man squad broke West Chester's course record during the tough competition with Glassboro. Mike Patterson, top Ram scorer, led the way as always.

The members of the varsity cheerleading squad wanted a new look for the 1976-77 season, and they achieved their goal by drafting men. Judging by the reaction of the crowds, it was a good move, although some other new ideas probably also accounted for a clear increase in crowd enthusiasm over that of previous years—such things as tossing the girls up in the air with an army blanket, for example.

Lore's atop the situation as Mike cheers the team to victory.

AND RECORDS

We showed that we can play with anybody. Our win over Temple, one of the Big Five, at the newly named Ram's Shack was a big booster of West Chester State's morale. It was our first win over Temple since the 1970 season. Another morale booster was the Ram's first win ever over American University, 57-56. As the score indicates, the basketball game proved to be grueling, exciting, and fast moving.

Coach Earl Voss 100th career victory came late in the season when the Golden Rams beat the Broncs of Rider College, 90-73. "It has been long in coming but it's sweet to meet," was Voss' comment on his career milestone.

The season featured many outstanding individual performances. Captain Curt Conrad (senior) played consistently strong games for the Ram cause and will be missed next season. Joe Sensor (sophomore) was high scorer and rebounder in many of the games. Joe led the nation in field goal percentage with an average of 69.9 breaking the record of Abdul Jabar.

Joe Kurtz and team mate Mike Boykin outmaneuvered their opponent as Kurtz sank the bucket.

A Reflection of the Past and a Preview of What Is To Come: This year's badminton team was truly a reflection of years past. Led by co-captains Hleanor Lorenc and Colleen Cosgrove, it became accustomed to victory—imitating the habits of previous teams. It had set a high goal—a victorious season—and has far surpassed it. While achieving its own goal, the team also succeeded in extending the college's record for the past 5 years to 44 wins and 4 losses.

The team also dominated the tournament courts of Lancaster, Stroudsburg, and Philadelphia. The first and second singles trophies, as well as the first and second doubles trophies, were often brought back to the home court by West Chester teammates.

The badminton team will no doubt miss senior members Carol Kashow, Hleanor Lorenc, Sue Pierson, and Claire Hiller, yet this year has also served to preview the future, and the future of the badminton team looks bright.

OUR MATS ON OUR PRIDE

This year the wrestling team felt anticipation, worry, and triumph. The early season squad was smaller than usual but anxious to take on a schedule that included such powers as Penn State and Navy.

Captained by 118-pound Bob Katz, the grapplers opened with tournaments at East Stroudsburg and Bucknell, travelled South over winter vacation, and then wrestled some of their most exciting matches at home. The 17-16 win over Lycoming and satisfying 21-16 victory over a strong Temple squad were some of the highlights in Hollinger.

The Rams felt better about their 7-10 regular season record after an especially fine showing in the East Coast Conference tournament: the tournament title was captured by Hofstra with West Chester in second place. Three Ram Wrestlers—Bob Katz (118), Nelson Stratton (142), and tournament MVP Don Meyer (158) — took first places and earned the right to participate in the Nationals.

A squad small in numbers showed itself long on talent, enthusiasm, and hard work. We're left feeling nothing short of proud.

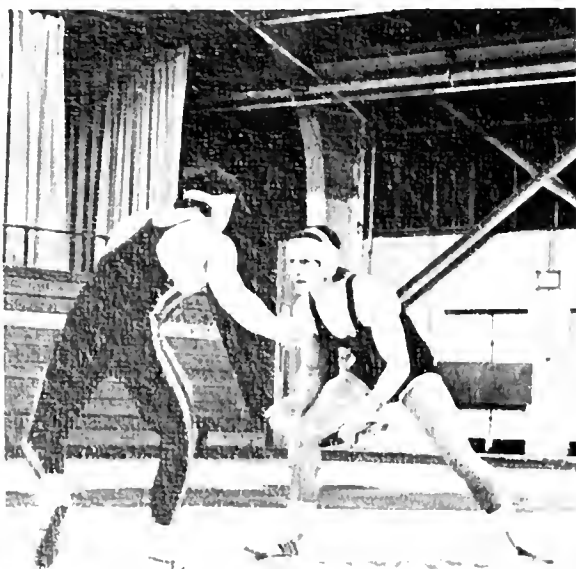

Nelson Stratton has reached a stalemate during his match.

John Licata's hard work appears to be working in his favor.

Don Meyer anticipates a takedown.

In the heavyweight match, Eric Swanson seems to be taking a closer look at the mat.

This small but famous town is populated by dedicated, hard working West Chester State swimming women. Throughout this town's history, the mighty mermaids have compiled an outstanding record of 99 wins and 12 losses. The 1977 squad, coached by Miss Sue Parkinson and Mr. Ronn Jenkins, is captained by its three seniors: Shelly Gilenan, Pat Koeding and Anne Sullivan, but we're proud to boast a team of great depth due to a large migration of freshmen into our town.

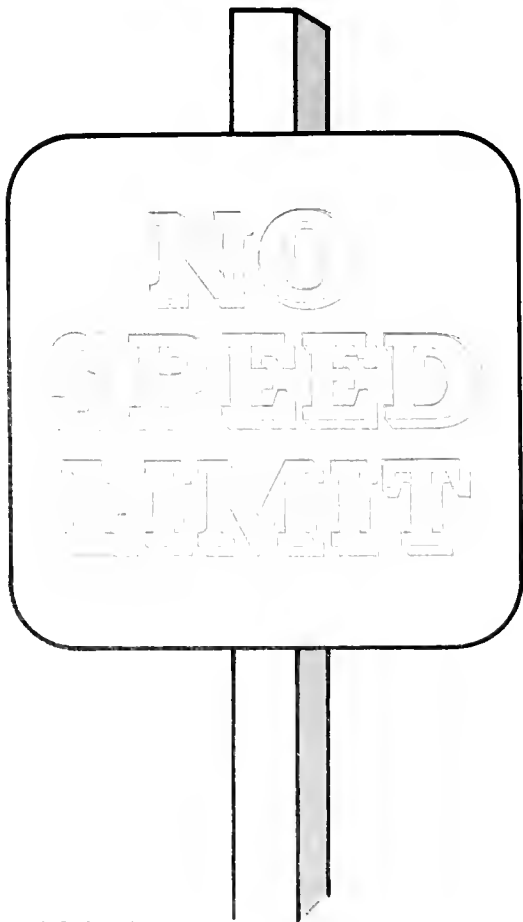

The squad's potential is perhaps best illustrated by its upset victory over Virginia Commonwealth University, and its earning 7th place in the Eastern Tournament.

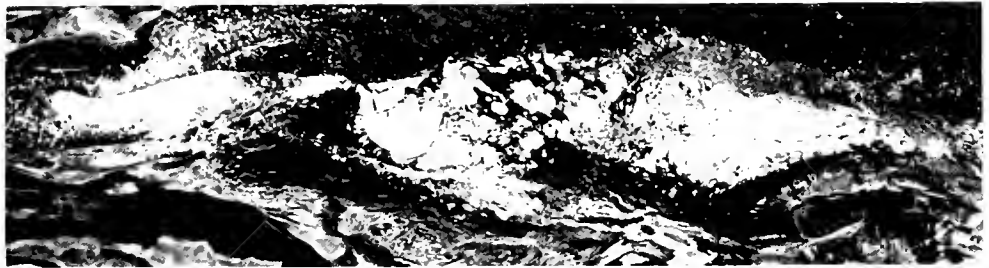

Devise Bollich's powerful butterfly strokes helped West Chester earn a winning season.

...and the national title. What was an old tradition was re-created. As athletic director of West Chester State College, Keith Reinherd, an national champion boxer, led them. Keith Reinherd, the club's coach, grew the team from a small unit to a national champion team in the past year.

The event did it in grand style, with a crowd of 1,000 spectators and a front of 1,000 spectators in Hallinger Field House, as the West Chester Club played host to the 1977 NCA Championships.

Keith Reinherd won a unanimous 5-0 decision at 139 pounds as he clearly dominated the bout and started the Rams' victory march.

Terry Cooney, boxing at 147 pounds, received the majority of praise. Terry fought well but was unable to counteract his opponent's long reach.

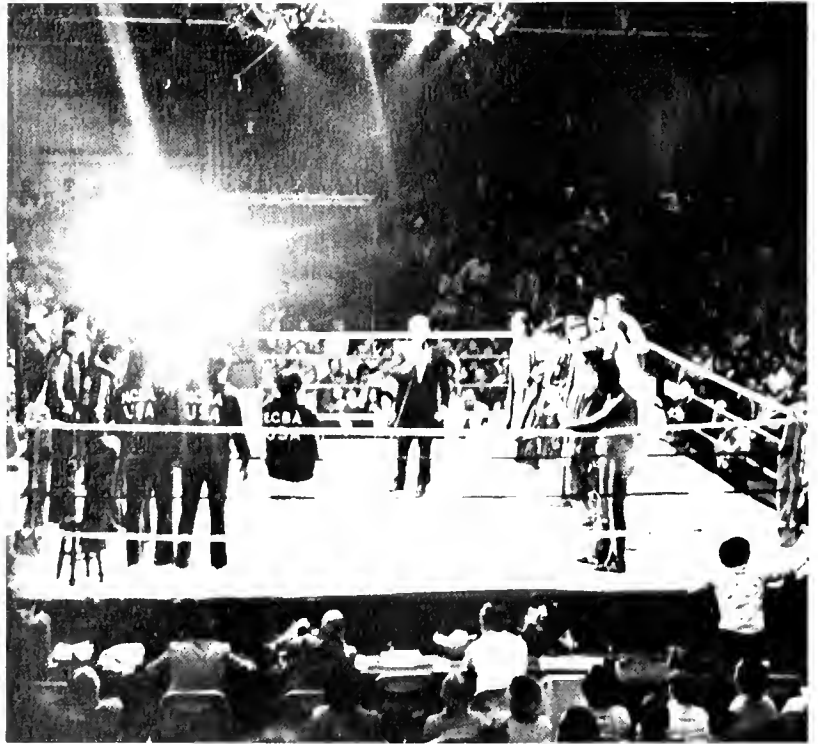

Tim Murphy, 146 pounds, went all the way in his first year of boxing competition. Tim needed a TKO to take the crown.

In the 172 pound class, Gary Woodring defeated the reigning champion from Nevada-Reno in a seesaw contest that featured solid punching.

Joe Gary returned to national competition to pick up his second consecutive NCA title, Joe boxed in the 180 pound class.

At 190, Joe Bucelli came out slugging and improved on his last year's runner-up finish in the only way possible... by taking the NCA title this year.

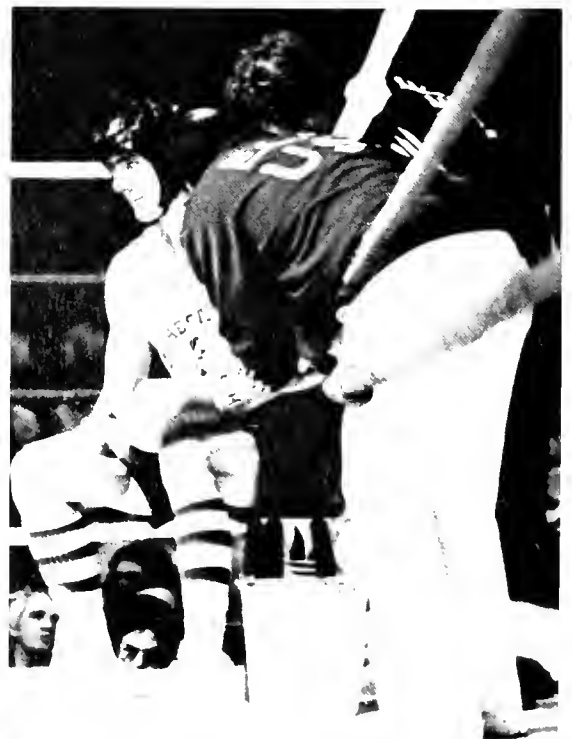

Heavy weight Bruce Blair closed out the night and his collegiate career with a unanimous win. Blair finished his perfect career in grand style, with 17 wins and no losses.

The second annual NCA Championships were held this past April at West Chester State College. The event was televised on NBC Grandstand.

Tim Murphy's arm is lifted in victory after his match in which he out-hustled his opponent from Nevada-Reno.

All very familiar terms if you are an avid ice hockey fan. Unfortunately many students on campus don't have a chance to see a West Chester State team that provides hard cross checking defense, a fast paced game, and victories.

Captain Bob Landrum led the hockey players to a 13-12-2 record, guiding them to a 3rd place finish in the league. Other standouts mentioned by Coach Leach were Mike Todd, Dave Landrum, and Jeff Champion. Jeff was named the most valuable defenseman for the league. Due to Jeff's leadership, the team's confident stick handling, and snatch glove-saves, West Chester kept most of its respectable opponents to fewer than 4 points a game.

The skaters ended their season with a close 4-3 loss in the championship playoffs to the eventual champion, University of Delaware.

MEN'S SWIMMING AND DIVING TEAM

The most exciting aspects of the 1976-77 season were the performances of team members during the Pa. State College Championships and East Coast Conference Championships. Efforts of individuals reflected their dedication and commitment over the entire season. At the same time, it was also the most difficult part of the year since it signaled the departure of four graduating seniors. Namely; Fran Cassidy, Bob Krotee, Steve Krotter and Bob Piotli. They will be sorely missed; not only because of their competitive abilities but also because of their leadership and ability to work with the underclassmen. To them I offer my congratulations for their excellent season, my best wishes for the future, and a sincere thank you for their friendship.

WORK TOGETHER WIN TOGETHER

Solidify, solidify . . . something the Women's Basketball Team didn't do until midseason, but once it happened it was evident how important a factor it was. Who was responsible for bringing it about? It's hard to say, because once a team has achieved unity, individual contributions tend to be overpowered by the success of the whole group working together. Still, it would be hard not to single out the team's only senior member and co-captain, Cheryl Holland and the other co-captain, Theresa Dunbar, as the moving force behind the solidification so crucial to us all, especially their starting teammates, Mary Zwann, Rose Cerino, and Mary Eichorn.

The team's 7-7 record is not a real indication of its quality—for there were really two different teams. We think that the team playing at the end of the season was the real one, and since only one member will be lost to graduation, we should be able to prove it next year.

Doris Schineller eyes the basket for a crucial foul shot.

This year's squad had an extra battle to fight: one battle was against opposing teams; the second battle, and by far the hardest of the two, was boosting the morale of each player between games. Games were so far apart, in fact, that the players termed the season "all practice, no games." However, through the leadership of quad-captains Pam Lott, Maureen Savage, Doris Schineller, and Pam Richwine, combined with the tension-dispelling antics of some members, the team was able to win both battles and compiled a very satisfactory 5-3 record.

The team takes a break as they plan their strategy.

"Can you top that?" was the challenge among the members of the Women's Track Team as they entered every meet, and it was an effective motivational device. Coach Bill Butler was pleased with each performance, many from freshmen, during the team's second year. He could not really be anything else but pleased since his team extended its unbeaten record under Hollinger's roof. And to top that, there was not one meet in which existing school records and personal best records were not broken.

Lex Ziobro started the challenge chant, 'can you top that,' with her record 880 yard run. Deb Frodigh and Carol McCauley answered the challenge by breaking the records of the 45 yard hurdle run and the shot put throw respectively. Ann Skahan, Ev Rusche, Karen Shelton, and LouAnn Isenberg followed suit as they captured the 880 yard relay record. Ann Skahan topped all members of the team by capturing two records in the 45 yard dash and the 440 yard run.

Even though this inner-squad challenge persisted throughout the season, the members always pulled together for a team victory. The only question which remains is: "Can next year's squad top this year's performances?"

RECORDS, RECORDS, RECORDS

The '76-'77 Men's Gymnastic Team's accomplishments were an outstanding example of what perseverance, talent and spirit can produce. Larry, Klaasen, the captain, defended his title of all-around champion in the North Atlantic Gymnast's League Competitions in March. Bill Lolli excelled this year in floor exercises and vaulting while the pommel horse was skillfully conquered by Frank Kudlac and Phil Husin. Sophomores Jack Fitzgerald and Hugh Jerlack consistently provided the team with a strong front line. The proficiency of this gymnastic team was matched only by the dedication and guidance of Coach Trinkka.

With Tape and Scissors

Behind all of the tape, adhesive wrap, and ice packs used in Athletic Training is a group of dedicated students directed by Mr. Philip Donley, Mr. Bradley Taylor, Mr. Joseph Godek, and Graduate Assistant Mr. William Buckley. A necessary addition to any organized athletic activity, an athletic trainer has a responsibility to prevent injury and to provide rehabilitation for those who do become injured.

During their first three years, athletic trainers are assigned to work with a variety of teams. Each semester a total of two hundred hours must be devoted to team and training room duties. Seniors spend their summer vacation in West Chester, since a total of nine hours of classes are required prior to the beginning of their fall semester. Then, in the fall, they are each put in charge of a specific team. In the spring, they must successfully complete the National Athletic Trainer's Association certification examination.

Upon graduation, each qualified athletic trainer receives his athletic training certification along with his teaching certification.

This was West Chester's year for the advantage in Men's Tennis. 1977 will be known as the first year which hosted the East Coach Conference Team and came in second place behind Temple. The overall school-team record was 9-4 with number one player and captain, Bill Mayer finishing the season with a 12-1 record and number two player, Ed McQuillan finishing with a 9-4 record. Coach Ron Woods had a very successful season which makes tennis West Chester's advantage.

CHECK IT OUT

Once again, the West Chester Women's Lacrosse Team turned in a super season finishing with an overall 9-1 record. The first part of the season indicated a slight lack of the fundamental skill performance and determination that the girls are so well known for. Fortunately, these qualities returned for the second half of the season. West Chester came on strong to win every contest except one by a good margin.

Our only loss was to Ursinus. However, the rematch between these two top lacrosse teams proved West Chester to be quite dominant as the Ramettes completely outplayed Ursinus. The remainder of the season showed the team performed as a complete unit and defeating their opponents with good connecting passes on the attack, excellent shooting, and a superior defense.

Leading the team this year were co-captains Karren Turner and Karen Shisler. Top scorers were Jane Aderman, Kim Tumility, and Karen Shisler.

Goalie Rich Beck protects the nets with great confidence and quick reflexes.

Scott Winneberger and Chuck Hovanic are practicing for the big game against Kutztown. (W.C.S.C. decidedly upset Kutztown.)

Senior Bill Evans executes a far clear pass as teammate Rich Hall checks his crosse.

John Rhode and Pat Kerns work on needed defensive drill as the defensive was not as strong as the offensive attack since the beginning of the season.

Sporting a 4 and 2 record with 2 games remaining the West Chester men's Lacrosse Team is looking forward to one of its finest seasons. Although it competes only at the club level, the team is rapidly improving — in part because of its summer practices. Led by goalie Rich Beck the Rams got off to a fast start, defeating both Villanova and Widener College. Then, after two tough losses to Hamilton College and Haverford College, the team bounced back to defeat West Point and Kutztown. The freshmen were guided by excellent senior players, co-captain John Rhode, co-captain Bruce Schock and Bill Evans. Their help, plus the rapid strides the team in general made in improving its play, may soon make it possible to field a full division varsity team at West Chester.

WC SOFTBALL . . . TEAMWORK

Pat Wertman releases her frilly-dilly pitch.

Somehow this season's recipe for success did not result in the expected product. The softball team just could not cut the mustard when it most needed to — its blend of experienced players and rookies somehow never jelled. The season was not a total disaster, however. A winning record of 7 and 4, after all, is not a bad cup of tea. The biggest disappointment, came during the game with East Stroudsburg, which was cancelled because of rain. This meant that the first confrontation between the two teams would come at the regional tournament. The contest will be a bitter one since the W.C. girls met their only defeat of last season at the hands of E.S.S.C.

Good fielding is most important, as displayed by third baseperson, Carol Kashow.

The team will sadly miss the six graduating seniors, many of whom were regular starters. However, an impressive J.V. team offers the hope that West Chester softball future will be a happy one.

After a fine winter season, four wins against one loss, the tide quickly turned for the West Chester men's track team. Despite excellent individual performances, this spring's record was 2 wins—4 losses. The team did, however, extend its winning streak in Hollinger to 45 straight, bringing the overall record there to 70 wins against only 1 loss.

West Chester had four representatives at the indoor ICAAAA track meet this year: Doug Owens, 60 yard dash; Bruce Norris, 60 yard hurdle; John McVann, high jump; and John Majewski, high jump.

With only one graduating senior, Dave Urbanek, returning lettermen, and the return of some teammates who were ineligible to compete this year prospects for a winning season next year appear excellent.

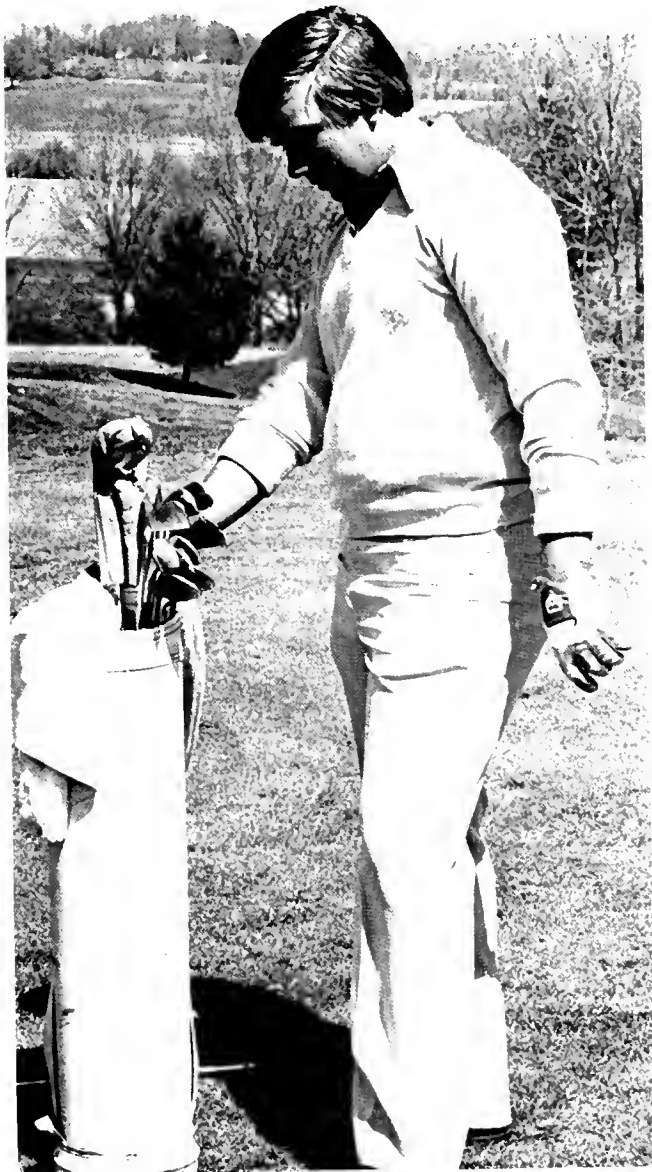

Starting the play against Lehigh and LaSalle is Bill Wonder teeing off from hole one.

Co-captain Jim Forster's consistently strong play helped lead the WCSC Golf Team to a victorious season.

Co-captain Mark Davis contemplates selection of an iron at hole number one on the Radley Run Golf Course.

Jeff Bettinger perfects his chip shot in preparation of his upcoming season.

MISS MARGERUM'S
MERMAIDS

Ballet in the water? Girls resembling mermaids swimming to music while dressed in fancy costumes? This is synchronized swimming.

The brilliant coaching of Miss Kay Margerum and the dedicated work of captain Josie Pizzi, has inspired the team to present Synchronized Swimming productions on a biannual basis.

Disney Fantasia was the theme for last year's show.

This year was a building year for the team and plans for next year's show are gradually taking shape. Even though many of the swimmers will be graduating, they leave a skilled and enthusiastic team. They have been working hard on routines choreographed by Seniors Josie Pizzi and Marybeth Gilsenan. We can all look forward to another enjoyable synchronized swim show to take place in the coming year.

The pinwheel (left) and pyramid formations (above) are only a few skills that these hard working girls perform.

"Mental toughness, physical conditioning, and a competitive desire to win," according to Lisa Coulson, are the main reasons for this year's excellent season. The team which competes in both Fall and Spring, currently has a 3 and 2 record, and earned a 5th place finish in the Middle States intercollegiate tournament this spring. Forty-two schools competed in the tournament this year.

Mrs. Karas, Women's Tennis coach, is very pleased with the depth on this year's team: "After the first singles position, Shirlee Hurst, any one of the singles players may play second through sixth position." The conditioning which Mrs. Karas has stressed throughout the season has benefited the players greatly in those long matches that frequently occur.

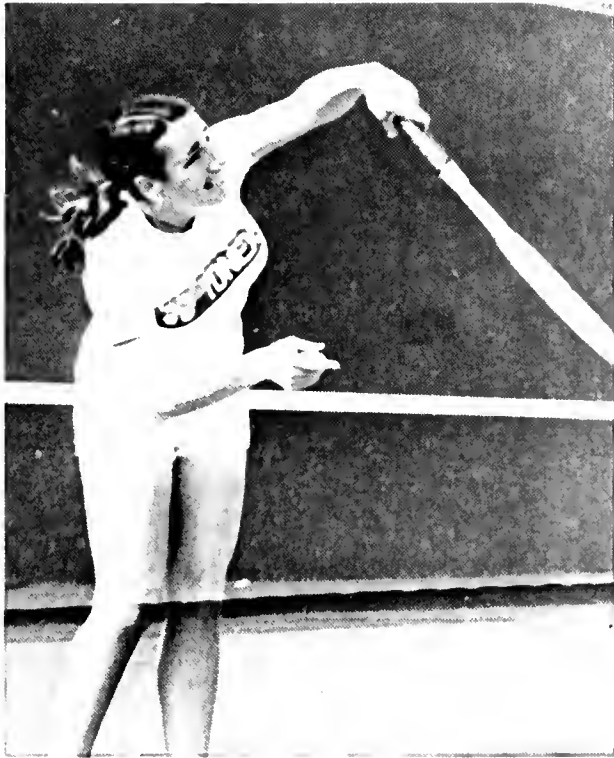

Graduating seniors, Kathy O'Donnell, Lisa Coulson, and Jody Landis will be sorely missed next year; however, with the core of the team intact, we're looking forward to another great season!

Senior Jody Landis will be missed as she leaves vacant the number three singles slot.

Lisa Coulson and Colleen Cosgrove pair together to practice at doubles play before the Immaculata match.

First singles player, Shirley Hurst, will be returning next year with great anticipation of helping the 1977-78 tennis squad improve upon their 12-3 record of this past year.

Senior Kathy O'Donnell returns service against her Ursinus opponents. West Chester won the match, 5-0.

Caught in the middle of serving is Lisa Coulson. Lisa plays single position in both match and tournament play. Lisa and her teammates placed 5th and 7th in Middlestates and Malta Tournaments, respectively.

HITS IT BIG

The Spring semester of 1976-1977 was very successful for the Ram's sports. Leading the spring sports down this path of success was the West Chester State Baseball Squad. The team compiled an overall impressive 22-11 record and an East Coast Conference record of 6-4. With this record, the West Chester squad captured second place in the Western Division.

Coach Neil Serpico has been working very hard these past couple of years to build up a strong pitching staff. His work was advantageous as two Purple and Gold starters put in winning performances on the mound. Dean Rich had excellent control with an individual 8-2 season while Conrad Everett compiled a 5-2 individual record.

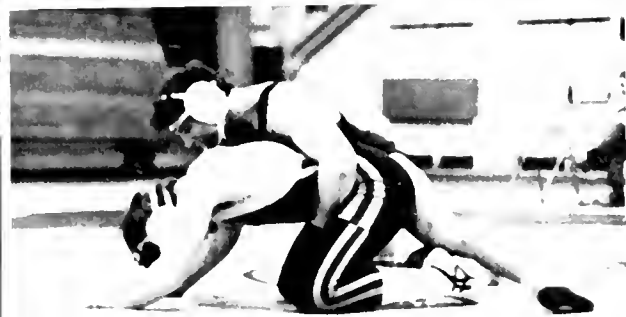

However to win baseball games, you must have a good defense and a good offense. West Chester had a very good offense. The heavy bats were Joe Baciotti (.429), Skip Angelo (.390) and Jim Durrman (.389).

Solid and consistent hitting by the entire squad allowed West Chester to participate in the E.C.C. playoffs for the first time since West Chester joined the East Coast Conference. In this double elimination tournament, the Rams met and lost to Temple, 17-13. However, West Chester bounced back to defeat Saint Joseph's by 6 runs with the score of 8-2. Unfortunately, our hopes of going further were abruptly ended by a 10-3 loss to the University of Delaware.

Nevertheless, the 1976-1977 Baseball Squad had an excellent year. Three records were broken this year. The 1977 squad had the most wins ever in one season. This was possible because of the two other records placed on the books: Joe Baciotti compiled the most hits in one season (56) while teammate Gary Noll slammed out the most doubles in one season (13).

Thursday Night
Club

Student Activism Day, sponsored by CAS, was held in the Fall of 1976. CAS asked Clubs to set up exhibits in the quad area for other students to enjoy. Few clubs participated. Students were invited to browse through the club exhibits, listen to the speakers, and to enjoy the music. Few students participated.

The many clubs at West Chester offer every student an opportunity to channel his own individualities and talents into a productive endeavor. Unfortunately, the general apathy rampant among the student body has limited any extracurricular commitment to a select few. Many of us excuse ourselves from involvement on the grounds of busy schedules. However, self-examination would disclose that most of us make time for social engagements, regardless of scholastic pressures.

Those students who have exerted some energy outside of the classroom throughout their college careers know that their efforts have not been fruitless. Rather, active participation in any club elicits a sense of achievement and self-esteem which a student dedicated solely to his academic studies never discovers. Therefore, we salute those few students, who, through dedication and sacrifice, worked towards the advancement of West Chester and their own self-improvement.

I REMEMBER . . .

. . . the ONE time I found a professor in his office when I needed him.

. . . when the bookstore was in the basement of Recitation Hall.

. . . the COWPATH: cattle from Ramsey stampeding to Lawrence at feeding time; slipping and sliding on the muddy trail, the herd pushed onward.

"Cathie, are you going to the Anvil tonight??"
"I can't. I have a Speech and Audiology test tomorrow. Who's going?"
"Peggy, Sandy, Steven, John, and Mark. I have to drive and there isn't enough room in my car for everyone."
"Do you know what group is playing?"
"Waterfront, so you know it's going to be packed!"
"What about the guys on the third floor, did you ask them?"
"They're going. They said they would meet us there."
"You better get moving, 'cause by the time you get into the shower, all the hot water will be gone."
"You're right. Well I'll talk to you later. Have fun studying!"
"Bag the test—I'm coming!!!"

I REMEMBER . . .

- . . . the announcements: "The noise level in this dorm is ridiculous!"
- . . . anxiously awaiting the snow holidays that never seemed to come.
- . . . the great flood of '74 when Goshen field flooded, a VW floated down Church Street, and Lawrence Center was a mudbath.
- . . . freshman year: I was in bed and heard screaming. I ran to the window and saw 60 naked guys out jogging! Hmmm, is this what college is all about?
- . . . mission impossible: "borrowing" trays from Slater . . . under coats, out windows, through bathrooms, past the cafeteria lady, and once outside . . . the fun began!
- . . . freshman year: trying to find an upperclassman to pull cards for me; of course I didn't know the cards were inarked . . .

Dr. Twardowski retired in December, 1976, as director of the Center.

The Career Development Center is a college service that assists students in determining how to fulfill their aspirations for the future. The Center has four objectives: to assist the student with accurate self-evaluation; to provide thoughtful career planning; to develop realistic attitudes toward work, and to develop employment seeking skills.

The entire management of the Center is run under the direction of three individuals: Walter Blair, Director; Patricia Thompson, Career Information Specialist; and Marie Markle, Credential Secretary. The work load of these three people is heavy, but the quality of their work does not suffer, consequently. In order to aid students in converting their college degrees into meaningful post-graduate directions, they sponsor a variety of activities open to all interested students. These include services to the individual student as well as group centered activities, such as resume procedure, interview techniques, and off-campus job hunt workshops. In addition the Center maintains credential files on graduating seniors and alumni and a current vacancy listing system available to seniors and alumni.

The Career Development Center does everything possible to familiarize students with the means of obtaining employment after graduation. The 1975-76 placement survey indicates that 53% of the 1976 graduating class have jobs, or are in graduate schools or military service. And with three people taking care of nearly 1200 seniors, plus countless undergraduates and alumni, they are willing to let that figure speak for itself.

Mrs. Thompson discusses job hunting techniques with a senior.

Many resume writing sessions such as this are conducted by Mr. Blair.

Many college catalogues are available at the Center.

Mr. Paul Blair

"How do you feel about the past four years?" and "How do you feel about graduation?" Here is what 15 seniors answered:

Edwin Stuart Erkes
B.A. Literature

"West Chester saved me from a life of sin, crime, and debauchery."

Without a doubt, my fondest memory of West Chester is of those O.K. Corral fences outside New Main. They seem to me oddly symbolic of the West Chester experience—wooden, over-expensive, and serving no apparent or even conceivable purpose."

Mary Baralt
B.S. Elementary Education

"I have a lot of great memories, and great friends. A precious few number of profs gave me something practical and valuable to take with me. They are the ones that made it worth my 10,000 dollars."

Terri Stumpf
B.S. Nursing

"I have very few regrets about the last four years. At times my courses were a little hectic, but I feel the friendships I've made will last forever.

I loved almost everything about West Chester, but I can truthfully say that I won't miss the dining hall food. After all, a person can only handle so much spaghetti and hamburger before it gets a little overpowering."

Rufus Littlejohn
B.S. History

"Though I'm going to miss a lot of people that I met here, I'm glad it's over. My years at West Chester were filled with both good and bad experiences, but I must admit that the good was overshadowed by the bad."

Hank McClernand
B.A. German

"I wish I could give all my friends and experiences here at West Chester to an incoming freshman, and hope that he would have as much fun as I did. I know that I'll miss my friends, but then again, I'll probably laugh my hair off, knowing that they are still studying for exams and eating that delicious food in the cafeteria."

Roberta Ferro
B.A. Literature

"Long ago I lost the illusion that my degree would guarantee me a job, but I'd do it all over again if I had the chance. The friends I've made and the good times I've had are worth every penny.

I have mixed feelings about graduation—relieved that all the work is over, yet sad that all the parties are over, too."

Denise Hoelsworth
B.S. Elementary Ed.

"My four years at West Chester have been filled with achievements, disappointments, 'all-nighters,' and most of all, good times with friends. College has provided countless opportunities for me to mature and develop my own individuality. I plan to use the knowledge I've gained from experiences here to establish my own future and build new friendships. My only regret about graduating is that I'm going to miss my friends.

Linda Crawford
B.S. Elementary Ed.

"My four years at West Chester State College have been a true experience and my honest feelings are mixed. While I was here I laughed, cried, enjoyed, regretted, loved, and hated.

I can recall the anticipation of coming here as a freshman and now the even greater anticipation of graduation.

Good times and good friends will surely be missed."

Maureen Murray
B.A. Social Work

"... cramming for tests, meeting new people, going to zillions of classes, waiting in endless lines, typing term papers, complaining about profs, deciding which is the current meal card, making good friends, wading thru puddles and mud, anticipating Spring Break, broken elevators, partying, cursing, laughing, the Rat, thinking, crying, running, growing. West Chester has been a great place to visit, and although there are a lot of things I will miss, I'm ready to move on."

Deb Kamerling
B.A. Social Welfare

"I feel that I've changed into a completely different person since I started college. I've had the chance to meet a wide variety of persons and broadened my views and become, I feel, more open-minded and objective."

Doug Bear
B.S. Health and Phys. Ed.

"The past four years meant a lot to me and I'm going to miss certain things about W.C.S.C. (except the cafeteria). It will be a hard adjustment leaving college, but I think I'll survive."

Rick Worley
B.A. Business Management

“College involves a lot of work, but can be a lot of fun if you get involved with the right people. I joined TKE Fraternity after my first year and since have experienced many enjoyable and memorable occasions. I believe college life is worthwhile no matter what your goals in life are.”

Carol Brown
B.A. Social Welfare

“I’m glad to be getting out and moving on to other things. After years of lectures and exams, reality might be an interesting switch.”

Paul Grasso
B.A. Business Management

“The past 4 years at West Chester have been good to me overall. There has been good days and bad but they all provided a meaningful experience. Academically, I had some classes that I thought could have been better while at the same time I had some excellent courses. I can see that West Chester is progressing. Between the time that I began here at W.C. until now there has been increasing improvement.”

Diane J. Eberly
B.S. Music Education

“Four years at West Chester have proven to be a time of learning, a time of frustrations, a time of valuable friendships, and most important, a time of growing, striving, and finally achieving peace within myself. Graduation fills me with mixed emotions. It is both an ending of a phase of life and a beginning of another—both are equally hard to face.”

senior dinner dance

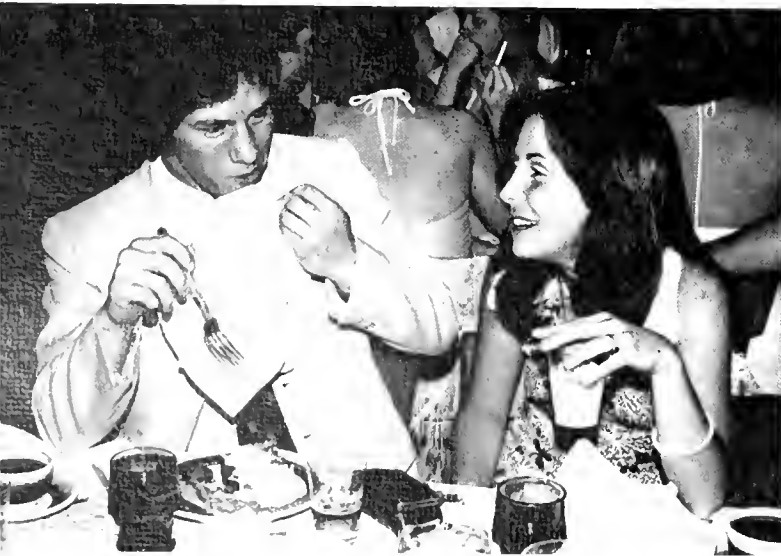

THE SENIOR DINNER DANCE THAT SURVIVED!

Our troubles began in October when it was learned that a Senior Class, for the first time in College history, had no class funds. How were we to function? What activities would there be? Most important — how could we pay a deposit for a dance from non-existent funds?

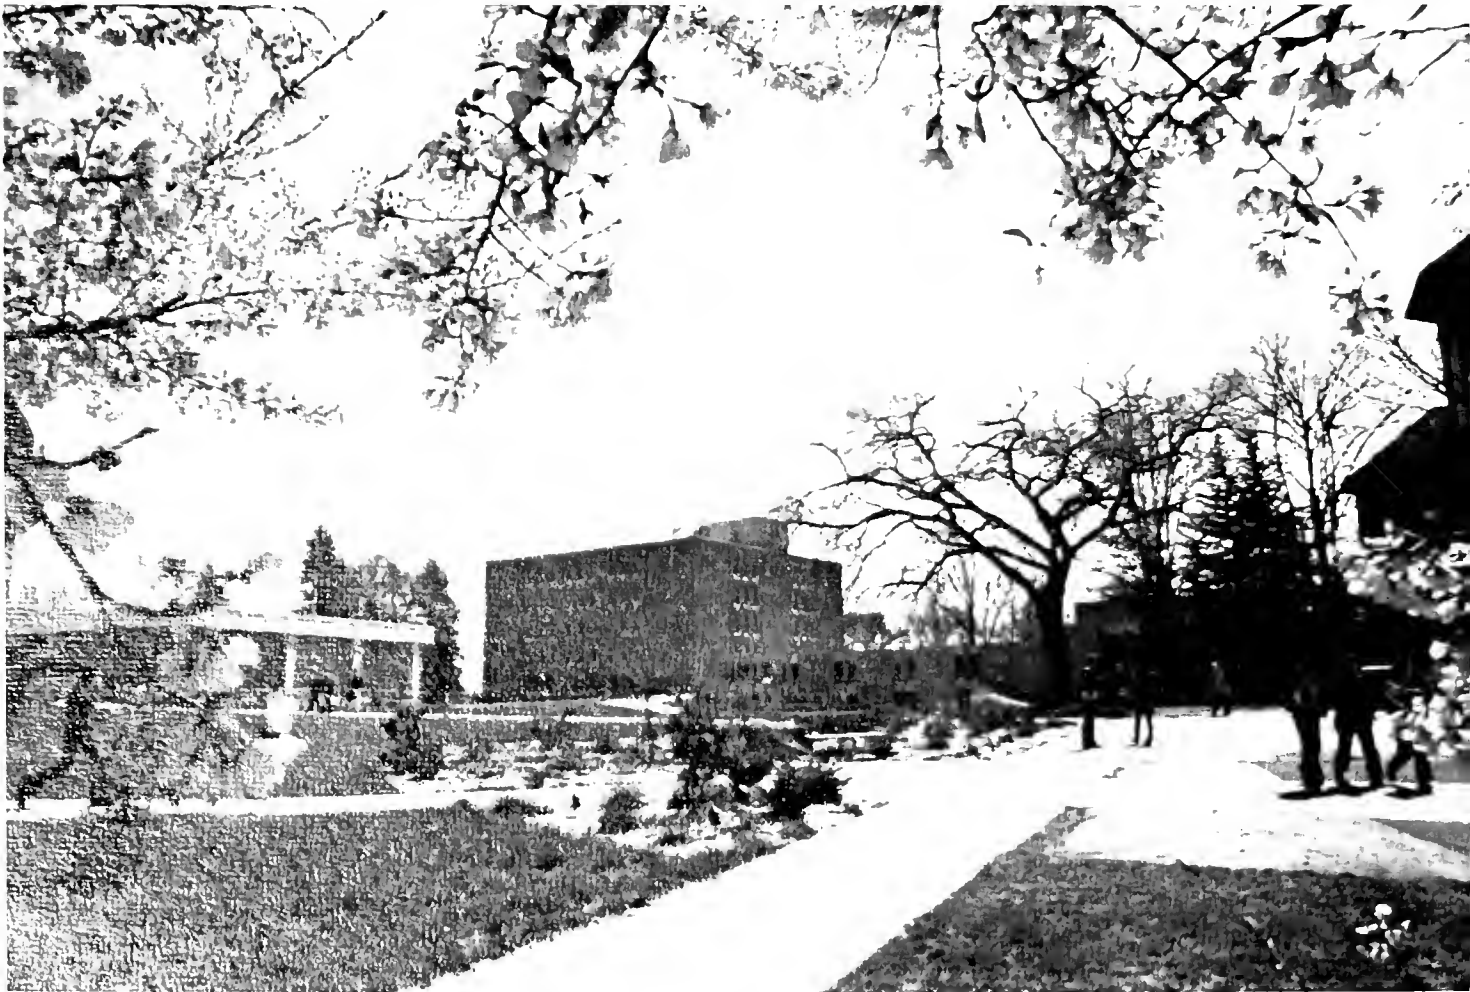

Hours upon hours of meetings with student organizations (IGA, RHA, OSCA, QUAD, WCUR, etc.) and administrators and the Alumni Association produced more sympathy and many promises to help, but only RHA came up with a gift for the Senior Class — $500.

Then the actual planning began: calling hotels, listing prices, setting a tentative date, making appointments to check facilities, printing tickets, selling tickets, and finally . . .

It was all worth it in the end. The Collegeville Inn provided a lovely setting for the Class of '77 farewell dinner. The delicious fantasy buffet and open-bar appealed to everyone. The music and dancing went on until 2 a.m. It was a successful evening and a great way to remember our Senior year at West Chester State.

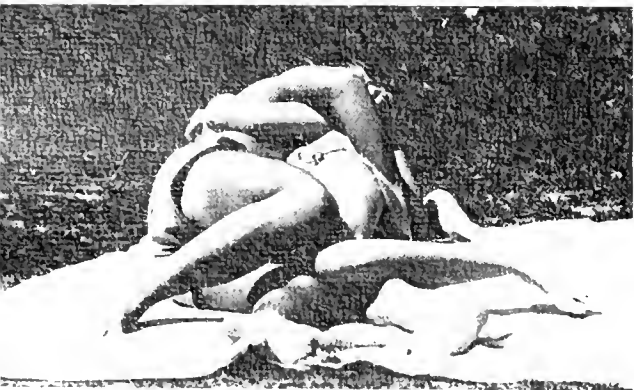

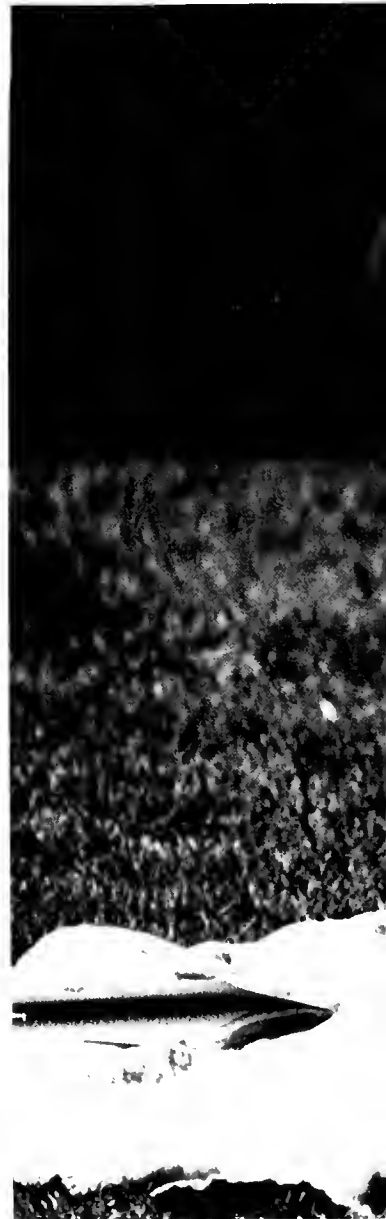

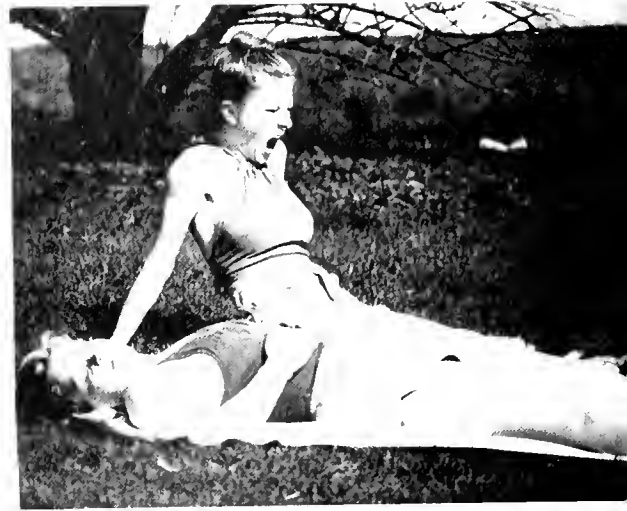

IN THE SPRING

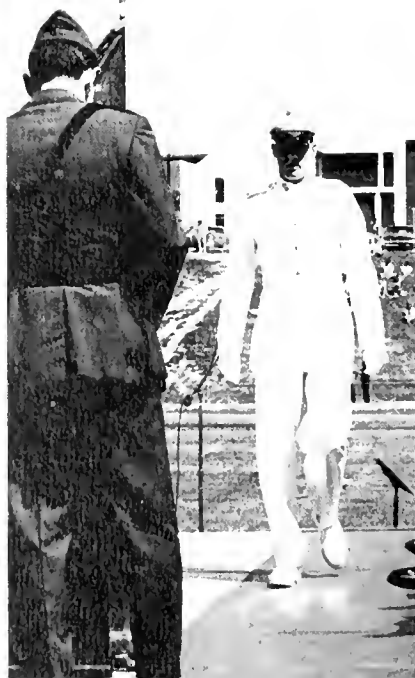

OUR GOAL AT LONG LAST

Along with the azaleas, forsythias, and tulips, something else that is "popping out" this month is the thousands upon thousands of college seniors who will suddenly be thrust into the already over-crowded job market. Like the class before them, and the class before that, they, in their distinguished caps and gowns, will accept the "mass-produced" college degrees that at one time (years ago) guaranteed them a place in the professional level of society. Not so anymore. Along with high school graduates, as well as drop outs, college graduates have found a place in line at the unemployment office.

As the typical commencement speaker urges the class of 77 to look forward to the future, "change the world", and solve all the problems an earlier generation has made, most students sitting on the chairs in the football field will be thinking to themselves, "Where am I going to get a job?" "How can I make money?" The class of 77 is not the class of 67. Instead of turning against the world, speaking out against wrongs, and demanding immediate changes, this class has turned inward. It is a class of individuals rather than a single group. It is a class that is thinking realistically about the problems that lie ahead, problems that are, more often than not, related to making a living.

Most college seniors are outwardly ecstatic when graduation comes. Those last reports are turned in, all final exams are over, and after 16 years of classroom study, they're going to see what "real life" is all about. But is it really a happy time? The security of the college community is gone and for most, financial support from parents is gone, too. Summer vacations, spring break trips to Florida, and weekends off are nothing but happy memories.

Graduation is a difficult time in one's life. So many changes take place. For the class of 77, it won't be easy, but then again, no one said it would be.
